CHICAGO RAIDS NET 917 WHILE TWO ARE SLAIN

Sweeping Drive on Crime Ordered After Reign of Hoodlums Grows.

40 SPECIAL SQUADS INVADE GANG HAUNTS

Those Unable to Account for Selves Jailed for Later Inquiry.

TWO AUTOISTS KILLED IN STREET ARGUMENT

Biggest Number of Holdups in Months Are Reported During Week-End..

Chicago, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Aroused by the reign of hoodlum savagery that has been marked by nearly a dozen murders, numerous mobings, shootings and robberies during the last ten days, police swooped down on gangland early today, and by nightfall nearly a thousand suspected thugs were behind prison bars.

The rrive, one of the most ambitious in the history of the local department, was instituted by Police Commissioner William Russell and Chief of Detectives John Egan, who ordered their lieutenants to continue the campaign until the city had been "purged" of criminals.

Forty special squads, assisted by precinct police, made a thorough canvass of the city, amjming police stations with their prisoners. The Loop and near North Side district, reputed territory of the Al Capone-Jack Gusick clan, were the first sections visited, and a score of followers of the pair were taken. Next came the North Side, where the Aeillo brothers and Ted Newberry hold sway, and then the bailiwicks of Hymie Weinge, Matt Kilb, Danny Stanton, Frank McErlane, Red Bolton, Klondike O'Donnell and a host of others.

All Sent to Headquarters.

Although none of the reputed leaders was taken in the first stage of the drive a total of 917 men, many of them described as "hired killers," had been arrested by early evening. They were rushed to headquarters for "showup" tonight to be paraded before victims of recent crimes.

About half of the total were said by police to have local police records, and numerous others were suspected of being terrorsts imported here from other cities by local bootlegging organizations.

Cabarets, hotels, soft drink parlors and speak-easies as well as all known rendezvous of gangsters were raided and those unable to give a satisfactory account of themselves were taken in custody.

Bondsmen Seek to Aid.

Tonight a swarm of professional bondsmen, attorneys and others were besieging headquarters in an attempt to obtain release of suspects, but in most instances, bail was being set so high that there was little likelihood of the suspects obtaining their freedom for the time being.

Meantime, any possibility of a letup in the drive was precluded by one of the heaviest week-end crime logs in months.

Two youths, Herbert Gers, 19, and Anthony Kilburg, 20, motoring home from a party, were shot to death by a group of Negroes in an automobile during a traffic dispute at a street intersection. The Negroes escaped.

Four Captured in Holdup.

A quartet of robbers, trapped by police, while attempting to hold up the fashionable Orrington Hotel fired on a police squad. The shots were wild and the men were overpowered and arrested.

James Riley and Thomas Sawyer, alias Carl Hanson, said to be Detroit extortionists, were shot and probably fatally wounded when they attempted to kidnap Herman Meyers, a local policeman.

A party of holdup men in an automobile attempted to rob an autoist on a South Side street but fled when the intended victim opened fire on them with a pistol. A patrolman came upon a man preparing to hold up a restaurant on the near North Side, but the latter escaped amid a hail of bullets fired by the officer. A police detective was shot when he and members of his squad engaged in a pistol battle with four gunmen in an alley, and another officer shot and captured a robber in front of a store the latter had robbed.

Girl, 8, Dies From Shot; Hit on Way to Church

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 9 (A.P.).—An 8-year-old girl was shot and wounded fatally while on her way to church here today. The little girl, Jennie Mark, died at 5:40 p. m. in Receiving Hospital. Police said they believed the shot was fired by some person who was trying to kill pigeons.

Jennie, with her two sisters, was walking to 9 o'clock mass at the Church of Our Lady of the Angels near her home. The shot was fired across a vacant lot within 50 yards of the Mark residence.

New 'Panther' Scare Proves to Be Coyote

Men Tell Story of Battling Animal Before Reporter Proves Skeptic and Learns It Was Shipped From Kansas City.

Washington's "panther" hunt was, for a while, thought ended with the announcement yesterday of the "capture" of a coyote after a "furious battle" in a Virginia home near Chain Bridge. Meanwhile, the coyote, upon whose "capture" two men "staked" their lives, is being held as an advertising hostage in the roadstand of Joseph D. Mackey at Chain Bridge. The "capture" was related when a few of the actors in the cast of the little drama disagreed on the circumstances of the battle that preceded the taking of the coyote.

Mackey and Creed Crumbaugh, the latter of whom conducts a gas station near Mackey's stand, relate the following story: "Saturday night we went to Mackey's home in Chain Springs to light a fire in the furnace. As we stepped into the cellar, which is the living quarters of the chickens, we saw a dead chicken."

Mackey, "I peered through the darkness and saw the animal's eyes gleaming in the dark. I flashed my light and saw another chicken just inside the door. I turned on the light and saw a form slink behind the furnace. It was just as night was falling. I reached behind the furnace. A horrible sight it was. The animal was ravenously munching another chicken.

"It looked like a police dog. I grabbed it and gave it a swift kick. I grabbed it again by the scruff of the neck and gave it a swifter kick. Then I tied a wire around its neck."

Here Creed Crumbaugh takes up the tale. "It was about 11 o'clock at night. We went to Mackey's cellar to light a fire. As we opened the door I saw the beast. I told Mackey to hold the door. I was ready to have it out with the beast whether it was a panther or not. The animal lunged at me and I gave it a kick. Mackey picked it up in his hands and began strangling process. It snapped viciously at Mackey and sunk its teeth in his coat, ripping the pocket. We secured a wire around its neck. I had a gun in my pocket but I was too frightened to use it. It sure was a narrow escape we had."

Mackey: "When I tied a wire around its neck I went back to the store and recruited a brave crowd of fifteen or twenty. Armed with guns, we approached the building. In the

BANKS WILL ACCEPT DONATIONS TO CHEST

Every Capital Institution to Have Special Teller in Charge of Drive.

CHURCHES ISSUE CARDS

The banks of Washington have united in offering to receive pledges to the Community Chest, and each has appointed a "teller" to handle such pledges, it was announced by Chest officials last night.

In addition, a group of members of the Junior League has been organized and will start today to work in relays in the various stores in the city, setting up tables and soliciting funds from shoppers.

All of the Protestant and Catholic churches of the city yesterday distributed pledge cards and each pastor spoke in favor of the chest, it was reported, indications being that many pledges would be received from this source, especially in view of the fact that the Rev. Lawrence J. Shehan, in charge of cards for the Catholic churches, returned to Chest headquarters for an additional supply.

In view of encouraging reports from scattered workers, coupled with additional offers of help in solicitation and the knowledge that pledges from the Government departments should begin to come in today in large numbers, the campaign leaders yesterday indicated that there is a possibility that the present shortage of $293,835.15 may be overcome and the 1930 quota of $1,786,737.07 reached by the end of the drive tomorrow night.

Mrs. Charles P. Summerall, wife of Maj. Gen. Summerall, Army chief of staff, sent word that the committee in charge of the military exposition and carnival held annually at the Army War College had decided to double its gift, from $500 to $1,000.

Some Government employes, apparently eager to get their pledges in early, have mailed them, and this is considered encouraging by Chest officials, who point out that last year these departments turned in a total of approximately $60,000 and are expected to exceed that amount this year.

"It appears as if the whole city were aroused," said John Poole, cam-

FLORIDA IS REACHED BY HOOVER'S PARTY

President Leaves Car First Time in Jacksonville and Takes Walk.

JOURNEY TO END TODAY

Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 9 (A.P.).—President Hoover and his party, en route to Long Key for a fishing trip, spent about 25 minutes here tonight. A good crowd of spectators which sought to gain entry to the train sheds was held back by special officers of the railway and police.

Soon after the train stopped, the President climbed down from his car and took a brief walk for exercise. It was the first time he had left his car since departing from Washington.

A delegation of officials was at the station to welcome him. The President also greeted his warm personal friend, Gilchrist B. Stockton, whom he has appointed American Minister to Austria.

Aboard the Havana Special, En Route to Long Key, Fla., Feb. 9 (A.P.).—With the cares of office a thousand miles behind him, President Hoover tonight was nearing Long Key, Fla., where for a week he will angle for deep sea fish.

Traveling as much like a private citizen as possible, the Chief Executive spent the day in his car chatting with close friends who will be his companions on this, his first vacation since assuming office eleven months ago. Except for week-end trips to his camp on the Rapidan River in Virginia, during the hot summer months, the President has taken no rest.

When Long Key is reached he plans to do practically nothing but rest and fish. In the baggage of the train he has a trunk filled with his favorite fishing tackle, which will be loaded aboard the houseboat, The Sauntere, as soon as the train reaches Long Key early tomorrow morning. From that time until February 17, the President does not expect to put foot on land unless some emergency arises.

Mr. Hoover did not leave his car during the day, but Mrs. Hoover got off at Florence, S. C., and walked up

Richmond Telegram Brings Aid To Dog on Potomac Ice

Southbound Passenger Sees Helpless Collie From Train and Then Wires Brother Here, Who, With Friends and Police, Affects Rescue.

Marooned on a block of floating ice in Georgetown Channel, near the Bureau of Engraving, a collie dog was the center of a rescue that extended from Richmond, Va., to the National Capital yesterday morning.

As a train bound for Richmond steamed across the Potomac River, J. F. Windsor, a passenger on the train, saw the dog squatting on the frozen little island. Throughout the journey to the Virginia capital, the vision of the animal in distress perturbed him, and when he reached Richmond he sent a telegram to a brother in Washington, F. H. Windsor, of 3418 Connecticut avenue northwest, telling of the canine in distress.

Receipt of the telegram resulted in the expedition of a rescue party composed of Mr. Windsor, Policeman Toland, of the Park Police; F. S. Jones, of 1900 F street northwest; G. B. Cartwell, of 502 Maryland avenue southwest, and J. A. Newman, of the same address, to the river.

Using a rope, tied to a brick, members of the rescue party adroitly lassoed the block of ice and drew it to shore together with the dog. The collie was taken to the Animal Rescue League, at Third street and Maryland avenue southwest, where it was given a warm breakfast and a kennel. Mrs. Leona Hicks, matron at the rescue league, who took charge of the dog, said that it was an animal of fine pedigree.

The collie wore a tag of identification bearing No. 12029. Fears were expressed that the dog had spent the entire night on the piece of ice. But where he came from and how he managed to reach the chilly spot remains a mystery.

KEY WITNESS IN M'PHERSON CASE FIRED ON

Conductor Lewark Drops to Floor of Car as Bullets Rain.

SEVERAL NEIGHBORS ALSO HEARD SHOTS

Crew Report Is Turned Over to Police for Inquiry.

TROLLEY MAN TOLD OF BANK AID'S RIDE

Grand Jury Failed to Attach Importance to Story of Road Employe.

In the wake of the famous McPherson mystery case, in which he figured as the foremost witness, Joseph H. Lewark, of 2214 Minnesota avenue southeast, and a companion employee on a Washington Railway & Electric street car of which they were the crew, were fired upon yesterday morning "six or eight times" while it was passing Fifth and Upshur streets northwest.

Tenth Precinct police received a formal report of the incident last night from the traction company, which communicated information tendered yesterday afternoon by Lewark, as conductor of the car, and its motorman, Melvin G. Sanders, of 535 Fourth street southeast.

The street car, with only the two members of the crew aboard, left the end of the line at Soldiers Home at 12:55 o'clock yesterday morning and a minute or two later was proceeding toward downtown Washington. When the car was passing Fifth and Upshur streets a shot rang out, piercing the quietude of early morning. Tenth Precinct police quoted the report as stating.

Men Drop to Floor.

In fast succession came the several other shots, prompting both Lewark and Sanders to drop to the floor, while the car continued dslowly in motion, police said. The Washington Railway & Electric Co. reported that no damage had been caused to the steret car and that the two men turned in a report in coming on duty yesterday afternoon.

Lewark was considered the most important of more than 900 witnesses interrogated by the Bureau of Investigation of the United States Department of Justice in connection with the death of Mrs. Virginia Hurley McPherson, and it was his testimony which was largely responsible for the final decision of Special Prosecutor John H. Laskey to bring the case before the grand jury for a second hearing.

According to the story which Lewark told Laskey and Inspector Thomas F. Cullen, in charge of the Federal investigators, and which he later repeated to the grand jury, he declared that Robert A. McPherson, jr., husband on the attarctive young nurse whose body was found, garroted with her pajama cord, in her Park Lane apartment on September 14, was a passenger on Lewark's down trip a few minutes past midnight on the morning of December 13, when Mrs. McPherson is believed to have died.

Conductor's Story Ignored.

The car of which Lewark was conductor left the Soldiers' Home, he said, at 12:03 a. m., and arrived at New York avenue and Ninth street northwest, where the man he declared was McPherson alighted.

Lewark declared he was positive of the date because it was his birthday, and that he was certain of his identification because he claimed to have known McPherson personally, and because he was impressed by the fact that the man was obviously in a state of depression and undesirous of conversation.

Lewark's testimony, however, was not considered by the grand jury as serious enough to warrant indictment of McPherson, and the body thereupon voted to ignore an indictment which had been returned by a previous grand jury.

HOUSE TO HEAR FIRST APPEALS ON DRY REPEAL

Congress Will Explore Prohibition Merits During Week.

COMMITTEE TO HEAR MODIFICATION IDEAS

Prelude to Hearings Is Sent by Bishop Cannon From World Tour.

SCORES DYER PLAN FOR STRONGER BEER

Brands Proposed as Product of Enemies of Law and Enforcement.

(Associated Press.)

Congress is to do some exploring this week into the national controversy over the merits of the dry law after having already made a start on the administration program to bolster prohibition enforcement.

For the first time in the 10 years of prohibition history, the House judiciary committee will hear pleas for repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Beginning Wednesday, it will listen in open hearings to those interested in every proposal for modification or repeal of the dry law.

As a prelude to these hearings, Bishop James Cannon, jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, cabled from Spain, while en route to Africa, a statement yesterday deploring the bill for 2.75 per cent beer as unconstitutional.

Transfer Bill to Senate.

In the Senate, Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, who voted to drive the saloons out of Montana, is drafting a resolution to be introduced today asking the Senate judiciary committee to investigate whether the prohibition law has been enforced and whether it can be enforced.

Meanwhile, the bill recommended by the Law Enforcement Commission for transfer of the dry enforcement service from the Treasury to the Justice Department is up to the Senate. Without a record vote, the House put through this legislation yesterday. Other prohibition legislation hangs in the balance with doubtful chances of enactment.

The drys are ready to vote at any time on proposals for repeal of the eighteenth amendment and are ready to block efforts for modification, but there are signs of opposition within their own ranks to any other prohibition legislation. So the transfer bill is expected to form the basis of a thorough threshing out of the liquor issue in the Senate when it finishes with the tariff, probably next month.

Bishop Cannon's View.

The message from Bishop Cannon follows:

"The purpose of the eighteenth amendment is to prohibit the traffic in intoxicating liquors. The Dyer bill is proposed by known enemies of prohibition, not really to aid prohibition, but to furnish drink with the largest possible alcoholic content, actually stimulating, not satisfying the appetite of the consumer. The adoption of this proposal would destroy any possibility of prohibition enforcement. The manufacture would legalize the reopening of breweries which were usually lawless in preprohibition days and which would inevitably pour out high-powered beers. The distribution would legalize the reopening of countless places of sale, the saloon or substitutes, which would as legalized open places, become centers of distribution of high-powered beers and spirituous liquors despite all efforts of government.

Would Be Semilegal.

"The liquor traffic would again become a recognized factor in business

Wilderness Holds Mail Plane Pilot

Minnesota Aviator Is Lost in Sparsely Settled Section of State.

Baudette, Minn., Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Maurice Miller, airplane pilot, who carried mail and emergency supplies to the scattered settlements in this far north country, tonight was reported lost in the wilderness between here and Northwest Angle. Miller left here late Saturday for Northwest Angle. He had not reached there late today and a search has been started for him.

Miller was last reported seen flying over Oak Island, in Lake of the Woods, 75 miles north of here.

A searching party will set out from here in the morning. In the meantime, Paul Sanderson, postmaster here, appealed to postal authorities at St. Paul for a plane to aid in the hunt.

FRANCE TO FIGHT ALL EFFORTS TO ABOLISH USE OF SUBMARINES

Also Opposes Humanizing of Craft Based on Root Convention.

WILL ADVANCE OWN PROPOSALS ON ISSUE

England, U. S. and Italy Stand Against Others on Question.

WARSHIPS LOOMING AS VEXING FACTOR

Reports Are Circulated That America Wants to Build Superbattleship.

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.

London, Feb. 9 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—France will not consent to the abolition of submarines at the plenary session of the London naval conference to be held Tuesday, Foreign Minister Aristide Briand told Secretary of State Stimson and Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow this evening when the American statesmen called on him at the French headquarters in the Carlton Hotel. Speaking for France, in the absence in Paris of Premier Andre Tardieu, the veteran foreign minister energetically declared that the French delegation will not agree to proposals for humanizing submarines based on the Root convention of 1922.

This convention, signed by France but never ratified by her parliament, prohibited submarine attack upon merchant vessels in time of war unless provisions exist for the safety of the passengers and crew of such craft.

M. Briand asked the Americans not to raise the humanizing question themselves at Tuesday's plenary session, but to allow Georges Leygues, French minister of marine, in his statement to the conference refusing abolition, to put forward the French proposals for humanization. He explained the French objections to the Root convention at some length and declared that France insists that submarines be treated on the same basis as any other warship with the same obligations and the same rights.

Interview Reaches No Conclusions.

No conclusions were reached at this important interview, at which it was hoped to agree upon the procedure to be followed Tuesday. But in an American quarter it was hinted tonight that the other powers probably will accept the French proposals if they can get nothing better, although they may insist upon putting forward their own more far-reaching ones so that the French position may be made clear. Great Britain is trying to prevent this being done.

At Tuesday's plenary session Great Britain and the United States will propose abolition of submarines with Italian adherence. France and Japan will refuse their proposals.

The British will be brought into the discussion tomorrow. Their attitude toward abolition and humanizing of submarines parallels that of the American delegation.

In the matter of battleships, it is evident that some fairly warm discussion is going on among the British, Americans and Japanese over the American proposals relating to this class of fighting ship. It revolves around two controversial points, which were left out of the statement of American aims given out by Secretary Stimson Thursday evening.

Two-Statement Report Denied.

There have been strong reports that the American delegation had prepared two statements on Thursday and that the version which Mr. Stimson did not give out called upon the British to scrap some of their more modern and not their oldest battleships. This was informally denied today at Stanmore, Mr. Stimson's country residence.

It is evident, however, from British comment, that the information

Dr. V. H. Parker Asserts Organization Seeks to Halt World Peace.

New York, Feb. 9 (N.Y.W.N.S.)—Charging the Daughters of the American Revolution with attempting to block the path of world peace by supporting large armament programs in Congress and with unjustified antagonism to prominent American women's organizations because of their support of the disarmament movement, Dr. Valeria H. Parker, one of the country's most prominent women in the field of social service and education, today submitted her resignation from the D. A. R., of which she has been a member for many years.

In a letter to the Washington headquarters she stated that the D. A. R. is controlled by "persons who are not in sympathy, thought and action for which the American revolutionists fought and bled."

PARALYSIS IS FATAL TO BRIG. GEN. MAUS

Noted Indian Fighter Dies After Colorful Career in Army Service.

WON BRAVERY CITATIONS

Brig. Gen. Marion Perry Maus, U. S. A., retired, died at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at his home in New Windsor, Md., after a lingering illness which followed a stroke of paralysis. He was 79 years old.

An Indain fighter of note, Gen Maus had a long and brilliant Army record both in the United States and on foreign duty before he retired in 1913. Since that time he and Mrs. Maus, the former Lindsay Poor, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Poor, of Washington, have been traveling in this country and in Europe until the last few years.

Gen. Maus was born in Burnt Mills, Montgomery County, Md., on August 25, 1850. In 1870 he was appointed to the West Point Military Academy by Montgomery Blair, Secretary of War. He was graduated in 1874.

The general, as a younger officer, had many years service in campaigns against the Sioux, Apaches, Cheyenne, Nez Perces and other Indians in the West. He was in action with the Sioux Indians in the Black Hills of the Dakotas, with the Nez Perces at Bear Paw Mountains, Montana, and the Apaches in Arizona and Old Mexico, in the Sierra Madre Range. He also took part in the campaign against the Sioux Indians in 1890 at Pine Ridge.

The Congressional Medal of Honor "for most distinguished gallantry in action" was awarded to him for his bravery in the Sierra Madre campaign. He also was given the Silver Star citation by the War Department on October 1, 1877.

Gen. Maus accompanied Gen. Miles to Europe in 1897 as aid de camp to

MAN ADMITS KILLING AND BURYING WOMAN

Dismembered Body Is Found in Shallow Grave by Boy at Play.

HEAD, LIMBS HACKED OFF

Muskegon, Mich., Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Forest E. Weaver, 28, an eccentric character who posed at times as a cowboy, a deputy sheriff and a Federal officer, admitted today that he murdered Mrs. Gladys Echardt, 20, chopped up her body and buried it in a shallow grave half a mile from his home in Muskegon Township.

"I killed her because I loved her," Weaver said in his cell at the county jail. He indicated that he will plead guilty to first degree murder when he is arraigned tomorrow. Weaver would give no further explanation for his act.

The woman's body was found last night in its shallow, snow-covered grave in a wooded section not far from a hill where Weaver had gone on a skiing expedition with Mrs Echardt during the afternoon. Weaver was arrested at midnight as he was walking toward his home from Muskegon. Officers learned that during his visit to the city after the murder he met Austin Vandorn, brother of the victim, and asked him where his sister was.

The body was discovered after a boy who was skiing on the hill reported seeing blood and what appeared to be a grave. Officers went in the darkness and opened the grave. They found the body nude and dismembered. The girl apparently had been shot four times. The arms, head and legs had then been chopped off with an axe and buried with the torso.

Tracing the crime to Weaver was an easy matter. Officers learned that he had been skiing with the girl. They found that he had returned to his home early in the evening, telling his

Doctors Think Armstrong May Escape Parrot Fever

If Public Health Aid Has Disease, Physicians Declare It Will Prove to Be Only of Mild Form; Has Cold and Fever.

Though the diagnosis has not been completed, authorities at the hygienic laboratory of the Public Health Service were still inclined to believe yesterday that Dr. Charles Armstrong, bacteriologist of the service, is suffering from a deep cold rather than parrot fever, the strange disease against which he has been directing a fight.

Aroused by the death of Harry S Anderson, 42, attendant at the laboratory, his associates prevailed upon Dr. Armstrong to enter the Naval Hospital after he had complained of a sore throat late Saturday. He had a high temperature Saturday night, but it had dropped considerably yesterday, physicians said, and lent encouragement to the hope that he had escaped infection.

If he has the malady, they declare, they are convinced it will prove to be only of a mild form, since a sore throat and a temperature are the only symptoms which have been discovered.

Although Dr. Armstrong has not suffered from a headache, which was the first symptom noticed in victims of the disease, physicians did not wish to take any chances of another person being stricken in Washington, and sent him to the hospital as a precautionary move. Since Mr. Anderson, who died Saturday from the malady, was less actively engaged in the psittacosis examination than Dr. Armstrong, physicians realized it was highly possible that he may have contracted the fever. None of the employes at the laboratory can be in any way immunized for the malady since it is entirely new and their work is to find the cause.

Dr. Armstrong is a native of Ohio

NEWS of SUBURBAN Washington and the Surrounding States

Appears on Pages 16 Today

is accurate in substance, though not in form. There also appears to be some truth in a report that the United States also wants to build one new superbattleship, the finest afloat, instead of scrapping one of her old ones.

Accordingly, the battleship position is very different from that assumed here when the American memorandum was issued.

Feature of Japanese Reply.

The most important feature of the probable Japanese reply to Mr. Stimson can be indicated tonight. Japan will invoke the transfer clause in the American proposal to Great Britain, which it is said is implied in the proposal to Japan, but on another basis which would permit Japan, without crippling her light cruiser strength, to build probably 14 8-inch gun cruisers to match the United States fleet of 18 of these vessels.

Japan, the correspondent was informed, is willing to accept the 60 per cent ratio assigned her by Mr. Stimson, or 108,000 tons against 180,000 American tons, but she will claim at the same time a ratio of 60 per cent of the largest existing fleet in each cruiser category. Mr. Stimson's suggestion gives Japan only 60 per cent of American light cruisers, not of British, and Japan will ask 60 per cent of British, which would give her 25,200 tons of 6-inch gun cruiser tonnage more than under the American offer.

Japan, it is the obvious inference from this information, would then be able to build up to her desired ratio in big cruisers by invoking the transfer clause between the two categories, at the same time keeping her light cruiser fleet at, or nearly at, the figure of 88,000 tons suggested by the United States, using her light cruiser balance to build big ones.

Battleships Are Still Issue.

It seems accurate to state tonight that while the cruiser question between the United States and Great Britain is settled, provided satisfactory deals with France and Japan can be made, the battleship issue is not, since it is not merely scrapping of capital ship tonnage that is involved but also the equation of fighting strength by application of a yard stick and possibly even the suggestion of the building by Washington of a new powerful battleship.

There is no authoritative information on this new battleship. The Japanese have heard of it, and apparently officially, since there has been hostile comment from Tokyo.

Without suggesting that Great Britain under pressure might not assent, it is evident from British comment that the United States will be considered here a hard task master if she insists upon building this ship and at the same time on Great Britain scrapping the Queen Elizabeth, while the Japanese say privately they don't want to build another battleship and that America's building one would force Japan to follow suit.

Believe United States Will Not Insist.

There is a fairly widespread opinion that the American proposal, even if made, will not be insisted upon, because, as one Japanese put it tonight, and his sentiment would be echoed by most Englishmen, the United States, in addition to exceeding the provisions of the present cruiser bill by the cruisers building she proposes here, can not intend to revive battleship building at the same time without making the ideals of this conference farcical.

It is very bluntly pointed out in the British press today that France alone is responsible for the world's failure to restrict the use of submarines against noncombatants since the German U-boat war, and at the same time France, with 99 submarines built and building, outnumbers the British submarine fleet, built and building, by 36 ships.

In French circles today there was an amusing reaction to rumors of British-American failure as yet to reach agreements about battleship replacement. It seems true that upon appearance of the Stimson statement M. Tardieu reproached MacDonald for having assured him that no Anglo-American agreement existed, and in less responsible quarters charges of hypocrisy were freely made. The French are feeling much more cheerful tonight because they think a battleship accord has not been reached between the two largest sea powers.

Italian Envoy to Tell Of Navy Stand by Radio

Italy's position at the present London naval arms conference will be discussed by Ambassador Nobile Giacomo de Martino, of Italy, in a radio address at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow night over a coast-to-coast hook-up of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Transmitted through station WMAL, the talk also will be broadcast over a short-wave channel through W2XE in New York and rebroadcast through station W3XAU in Philadelphia. The Ambassador will be introduced by Senator Frederick H. Gillett, of Massachusetts. In connection with this program, Italian music will be rendered by Columbia artists from the New York studio.

French Press Is Critical On Sea Parity With Italy

Paris, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—French press comment on the London naval conference continued today to be critical and sarcastic, the Paris newspapers declaring the price of Anglo-American parity could not be paid by other nations.

This is interpreted here to mean that France can not grant parity to Italy simply because Great Britain has agreed on parity with the United States.

The tireless Premier Tardieu seems to be destined to establish a record for round trips between London and Paris in trying to conciliate conflicting viewpoints in London and in Paris. Le Temps maintains that Anglo-American parity really gives naval superiority to the United States, and insists that the American naval needs are greatly below those of Great Britain.

Referring again to the French position, the newspaper thinks it will be helpful to repeat at London that France, whose colonial empire is second only to Britain's, is under the absolute necessity of possessing a fleet large enough to meet her international requirements. In this vital question, it says, France can make no sacrifices.

Low Chain-Store Wages Are Rapped

More Pay for Girls Bluntly Proposed in Department of Labor Report.

(Associated Press.)

Higher wages for sales girls in the limited-price chain department stores were bluntly proposed in a statement issued yesterday by the women's Bureau of the Labor Department.

The Government bulletin stated that 70 per cent of the 6,000 girls in the chain stores surveyed are receiving less than $15 a week, 44 per cent are getting less than $12, and 25 per cent failed to receive "even as much as $10 a week in the last quarter of 1928."

However, the Women's Bureau is hopeful of the future and not so condemnatory of the working hours established by these stores. It reported that the "weekly schedules, despite the long Saturday were not excessively long for the majority of the employes, although about one-fourth worked more than 54 hours, though none so long as 60."

Without mentioning the names of the chain stores, the report scored the "theory that young unmarried girls living at home should be paid a low wage because they can live more cheaply."

Evangelism Campaign Plans Are Perfected

The general committee in charge of the forthcoming city-wide Kernahan directed survey and visitation evangelism campaign in March and April held a meeting last week at First Congregational Church with the Rev. J. R. Duffield presiding in the absence of the Rev. Jason Noble Pierce, who is general chairman of the city-wide committee.

Complete cooperation among many city-wide groups was promised by pastors and laymen attending the meeting, all of whom are members of the general committee. Among the speakers were Col. J. E. Yates, chief chaplain of the U. S. Army; Capt. Sydney K. Evans, chief chaplain of the U. S. Navy; the Rev. Earle Willey, speaking for the downtown churches; the Rev. P. C. Edwards, for the up-town churches; and the Rev. Homer J. Councilor, speaking for young peoples organizations.

and down the station platform as trainmen inspected the train and a new locomotive was attached. A small crowd recognized and gathered around her and the President's car, but Mr. Hoover did not appear and Mrs. Hoover retreated back into the car as soon as possible.

The Chief Executive and his wife spent the morning chatting with their friends, but during the afternoon Mr. Hoover retired to his room to read the newspapers picked up on the way and to look over some papers demanding his attention. After today, however, he does not expect to do anything but fish, unless some problem growing out of the London arms conference arises.

That he expects to give some attention to that subject was evidenced by the presence on the train of Capt. Allen Buchanan, his naval aid. Capt. Buchanan has been an adviser of the President on the naval conference since it was proposed last fall.

With Mr. Hoover were Justice Harlan F. Stone and Mrs. Stone, Mark Sullivan, newspaperman and writer, and Mrs. Sullivan; Lawrence Richey, one of the President's secretaries, and Mrs. Richey; Dr. Joel T. Boone, the White House Physician, and Mrs. Boone, and Vernon Kellogg.

All of the men have been fishing companions of the President since the days when he was Secretary of Commerce.

When the President gets aboard the Sauntérer that craft will put out 5 or 10 miles. Mr. Hoover each day will board a smaller vessel and fish, returning to the Sauntérer at night in time for dinner.

Sail fish, which abound off Long Key where the warm Gulf Stream joins the Atlantic Ocean, will be the President's particular quarry.

SNOWDEN STATES BELIEF IN PARLEY

British Chancellor, in Radio Talk, Gives Staggering Cost of War.

DEBTS BURDEN WORLD

New York, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Philip Snowden, British chancellor of the exchequer, told American and Canadian radio audiences today that the five-power naval conference in London must succeed or the peace-loving peoples of the world will have a "shattering blow."

He added that "the conference is proceeding satisfactorily, and its conclusions, I believe, will advance the nations on the way toward universal disarmament."

Mr. Snowden spoke from London and his words were retransmitted on this side of the Atlantic by means of an international hook-up of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

His address stressed the economic burdens resulting from the World War. As an illustrator of these burdens, he described those of his own country.

Cost of War to Britain.

"Great Britain," he said, "has spent some $50,000,000,000 on its part in that colossal tragedy. This is apart from the loss of the wealth-producing capacity of some millions of men drawn for four years from useful employment. The war had left Great Britain with a war debt of over $35,000,000,000. We had to raise each year from taxation the sum of $1,720,000,000 for the interest on the debt without making any appreciable impression on the amount of the debt.

"At the present rate of repayment of the debt it will take 140 years to liquidate it. Today we must raise for debt purposes $5,000,000 every day, $200,000 every hour, $3,000 every minute. It takes the whole time-labor of 2,000,000 workers, year in and year out, to pay the annual cost of our debt burden. Add to this $575,000,000 we annually spend on war services and $280,000,000 we pay yearly for the war pensions, and we get a total of $2,600,000,000, or $5,000 a minute, which Great Britain has to provide for war purposes."

In view of this burden, he said, it is a wonder that Great Britain has been able to maintain her position at all. The country's financial and industrial power, he added, lay in the fact that it has a larger number of people in employment than before the war.

War Cripples World Resources.

He said it passed "the power of the most imaginative mind to conceive what prosperity and happiness" could be added to the world if the resources wasted by war could have been used for the advancement of human wealth.

Moreover, he said, every one of the great powers, except Germany, which has been compulsorily disarmed, is spending much more on armaments than was spent before the great war. The world expenditure for this purpose, he said, is $4,500,000,000 annually, of which 60 per cent is spent by European countries, about 20 per cent by the United States and 20 per cent by the rest of the world. Armaments, he said, are a provocation to war, and war "never settles anything."

"Apart from the tragic facts I have given as to the cost of wars, there are the still more terrible horrors of the suffering which war inflicts," he declared, "and so the great desire exists on the part of the peoples of the world to make the anguish of past generations the stepping stones to future peace."

Misses Winifred Marlow, Lillian Findlay, Gladys Fitzgerald, Margaret Hibble, Elizabeth Roland, Flora Robinson, Marie Zandonini, Ida Larson, Rebecca Kanode, Emily Raynor, Jessie Smith, Lois A. White, Maude Steele, Emily Knotts, Lois Gates Gorman, Edith F. Giddings, L. E. Bourgeois, and Mrs. Anna Mohannon and Mrs. Cecelia Iden constitute the District committee in charge of arrangements.

Watches and Clothing Are Stolen From Man

Two watches and clothing, valued at $104, were stolen from Dulan Sellers, a roomer at Thirteenth street between L and M streets, early yesterday morning, according to a report received by Second Precinct police. Sellers gave police the name and description of a man whom he suspects of having stolen his belongings.

Mrs. Barbara Houston, living at an apartment house on Fifteenth street between Florida avenue and W street, reported the theft of a gold pedestal clock, a wrist watch and clothing, valued at approximately $50. She told police that the door of her apartment was forced open.

TOKYO SEES FIGHT OVER SUBMERSIBLES

Japanese Leaders Believe Delegation Faces Its Hardest Problem.

PREPARED FOR CONTEST

Tokyo, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—With the London naval conference preparing to grapple with the submarine question at the plenary session Tuesday, Japanese leaders today believed their delegation faced on that occasion one of the most difficult problems of the parley.

They considered that last week's proposals of the Americans and British showed it was the submarine category wherein Japan's policy differs most widely from that of the Anglo-Saxon powers. The Tokyo government was hardly surprised to find the United States and Great Britain opposing the 10-10-7 cruiser ratio they had suggested for the American, British and Japanese, respectively, but the American proposal understood to be for limiting Japan to 40,000 tons of submarines against 60,000 each for the United States and Great Britain was a distinct shock.

Japan asserted from the outset that her minimum submarine requirements amounted to 78,000 tons, a total which her present program would provide by 1932. The Mikado's government hardly expected serious Anglo-American opposition to Japan's program, although it meant virtual three-power parity in the submarine category.

Understanding that America wants to cut the proposed Japanese tonnage in half, and that Great Britain desires to fix the maximum tonnage for individual submarines at 1,500 tons, which is smaller than all the new units of Nippon's undersea fleet, the Japanese delegates are likely to enter Tuesday's conference session prepared for a stiff contest.

The new submarine E-60, just added to the Japanese fleet, has made a successful cruise from Sasebo, near Nagasaki, to Dairen, in the Kwan-Tung Peninsula. The E-60 is Japan's ninth submarine in the 1,650-ton class, her eighteenth above 1,000 tons, and the twelfth above the 1,500-ton limit Great Britain proposed.

In addition, the E-60 gives Japan 64,657 tons of submarines actually commissioned, none more than 11 years old.

New Retirement Bill Is Attacked

Civil Service League Head Asserts Measure Is Only "To Muddy Water."

A bitter attack on the new retirement bill introduced Saturday by Representative Lehlbach was launched yesterday by Mrs. Margaret Hopkins Worrell, president of the League of the American Civil Service, who bases her criticism on a charge that the bill was "sponsored by Luther C. Steward, president of the National Federation of Federal Employes," for the purpose of "muddying the waters."

Mrs. Worrill declared that when various organizations urged an immediate report on the Dale-Lehlbach bill, "at the very moment Luther Steward must have known that Chairman Lehlbach would not report the Dale-Lehlbach bill, but intended promulgating the bill sponsored by Mr. Steward which was introduced last Saturday."

She explained that "not having read the new retirement bill introduced by Chairman Lehlbach Saturday, I can not express an opinion as to its demerits." In concluding her statement, Mrs. Worrell said: "Therefore, the League of the American Civil Service will scrutinize the Lehlbach bill very carefully, and if it is the best bill we will endeavor to have it passed, but if not, we will do all in our power to prevent its enactment into law."

Two Die in Flames Of Wrecked Plane

One of Victims Was Taking First Airplane Ride; Attempted Loops.

New York, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—A commercial pilot and a friend who was enjoying his first air ride were killed today as their plane crashed into a wooded section of Jamaica, Long Island.

The bodies, badly burned, were identified several hours after the crash as those of Edwin Magruder, 26, pilot for the Russell Lobe Parachute Co., and Richard H. Gillette, about 26, both of New York.

Witnesses of the accident said the plane, which had taken off shortly before from Roosevelt Field, N. Y., was performing loops when it suddenly fell from a height of 1,000 feet. It burst into flames as it dropped and was reduced to a tangled mass of wreckage.

The plane was a demonstration ship of the Parachute Co. Recently Magruder, with Fred Cole, mechanic, made a tour of several cities in it, demonstrating parachutes.

Magruder has two brothers, William and James, living in Los Angeles. He held a limited commercial license and had flown a total of 360 hours.

Mother Saves Sons' Bodies From Dissecting Scalpels

Pleading Note Causes Corpses of Pair Slain in Holdup to Be Taken From Medical School and Sent to Poverty-Stricken Woman.

Wake Forest, N. C., Feb. 9 (A.P.).—A mother's love, following the paths of two wayward sons across the hills from Kentucky, today had claimed their bodies from the dissecting room of Wake Forest College Medical School, where they had lain for more than five months.

Last August Cleve and Olin Birdsong stole an automobile from a small town near their Kentucky farm home. They traveled across Tennessee to North Carolina and, out of funds near Sanford, N. C., decided to hold up a filling station.

Gaither Edwards, proprietor of the filling station, reached for his own gun when the Birdsongs attempted robbery. Himself wounded fatally, he shot both to death.

Officials of the North Carolina county communicated with Kentucky officials. The stolen automobile was claimed, but none came forward to claim the bodies of the Birdsong boys.

"Their relatives had no funds," Kentucky officials wrote, and disposition of the bodies devolved upon North Carolina officials. They were turned over to the medical school.

The school was well supplied with the material and the bodies were untouched when, five months later came a letter in a soiled envelope with a barely legible address scrambled in pencil.

It was from Mrs. Eva Birdsong, poverty-stricken mother of Cleve and Olin, who asked if it were possible for the bodies of her sons to be returned to her.

"I know they done wrong," she wrote, "but they were mine and I loved them, sir. They are my flesh and blood."

There were conferences at the college. Students and professors joined in contributing funds to aid the Birdsong parents in making a grave upon which they might lay flowers, and so, wrapped in winding sheets and in plain coffins, the bodies of the Birdsong boys were placed on a train carrying them home.

DECISION DUE TODAY IN BRADY VENUE PLEA

State Asks Shift of Murder Case After Texas Jury Fails to Agree.

DELIBERATED FOUR DAYS

Austin, Tex., Feb. 9 (A.P.).—District Judge J. D. Moore tomorrow will act on the State's motion to transfer the case of John W. Brady, former Texas court of civil appeals justice, charged with the murder of Miss Lehlia Highsmith, 28-year-old stenographer, to Georgetown for another trial.

A jury, which for almost 96 hours had held the murder case, was discharged yesterday afternoon because Foreman J. R. Keltner, in reporting, had announced that the count was 11 to 1 "for conviction," in spite of the court's instructions that he reveal only the numerical standing.

Dayton Moses, one of Brady's attorneys, called the remark to the attention of the Court later, and Judge Moore declared a mistrial.

Foreman Voted to Acquit.

Keltner, it was revealed as the jurors separated to go to their homes, was the juror who stood for acquittal.

Nine others wanted to assess the 59-year-old former appellate court justice the death penalty and two others, also refusing Brady's plea of insanity, induced by chronic alcoholism, voted for life imprisonment.

Counsel for Brady and the State's attorneys tomorrow will confer with Judge Moore, before he acts on District Attorney Henry Brook's request that the case, which he proposes to follow wherever it goes, be transferred to Georgetown, near here.

Jury Sets Record.

Court officials believe a record for lengthy deliberation was set by the jury which, after deliberating intermittently almost four days and nights, was unable to agree as to the guilt or innocence of Brady.

The State advanced the theory that jealousy caused Brady to stab to death his alleged intimate on November 9 last because he believed she was leaving him for younger men, and the young district attorney had demanded the death penalty.

The woman was killed in front of her apartment a few hours after Brady had been ejected from a neighboring apartment, where a party was in progress at which Miss Highsmith was a guest.

NEW PANTHER SCARE IS WESTERN COYOTE

meantime we had decided to take the beast alive. We hastily built a crate. Stealthily we approached, fearful of our lives. We knew it was risky business trying to take wolves alive. Finally, one of the crowd, braver than the rest, approached and tied a wire around its neck, and we clapped the crate over its head and the snarling beast that had killed so many animals was at our mercy."

Mackey was asked where the dead chickens were, but he replied they had been buried. How come the discrepancy in the time element? How come all the wires around the coyote's neck?

But there was the coyote, firmly secured in a crate in Mackey's roadstand to prove the harrowing tale. Further, coyotes are not indigenous to these parts. None are found east of the Mississippi.

But—

Reportorial inquisitiveness went a little further than the circumstances of the capture. A few phone calls revealed that a coyote was received Thursday at the Bethesda, Md., railroad freight station, consigned to Joseph D. Mackey, and had been sent from Kansas City.

The identification of the coyote was easy, as the animals carry an aroma that is very repugnant to the olfactory senses.

Remains of Giant Sloth Are Found

Representative Beck pointed out, however, that human progress moves in a constant series of ascending and descending curves, and man has, throughout all history, passed through a ceaseless cycle of integration and disintegration. He also added that it is easy for a people to be content with popular government when prosperity is general, and that a prolonged period of adversity may have a terrible vindication.

In conclusion, Representative Beck warned that the Government of the United States is not perfect and inured against destruction. "Let us not lay the 'flattering unction to our souls' that we have finally and completely solved the great problem of popular government," he said. "It is still, to use the words of Lincoln, 'an unfinished task,' and to it the living, from generation to generation, must still dedicate themselves. Our institutions are not static but always in a state of flux."

FARM UNITS SUBMIT DEMANDS ON TARIFF

Organizations Want No Bill at All Unless Requests Are Granted.

MOVE HELD AS SURPRISE

An additional element of confusion was injected into the already chaotic tariff situation yesterday when a group of powerful farm organizations served notice on the Senate that they want no tariff legislation at all unless there is an upward revision of the duties on sugar, casein, blackstrap molasses, hides and fats and oils. The Senate already has rejected the increases on these commodities demanded by the farm groups.

Yesterday's ultimatum was in the form of an open letter to the Senate signed by representatives of the American Farm Bureau Federation, the Farmers Educational and Cooperative Union of America, the National Cooperative Milk Producers' Federation, the American Cotton Growers Exchange, the National Livestock Producers Association, the American National Livestock Association, and the Central (Livestock) Cooperative Association of St. Paul, Minn. The names of more than a hundred local units of the national groups are also signed to the letter.

"On our part there will be no compromise in regard to our final position relative to the tariff bill," the letter reads. "If insignificant measures of tariff relief are given and such important products as those mentioned are allowed to come in duty free or at such rates of duty as are inadequate to protect our domestic producers, we shall consider such action by Congress a failure to carry out the popular will.

"For the present, it would be better for agriculture to continue under the tariff act of 1922, which does not protect agricultural products, than to put up with a new bill, which could not be changed for probably a decade, in which either inconsequential or surplus agricultural commodities are given protection while really important ones, such as those mentioned, upon which tariff rates would be effective, are neglected."

The position taken by the farm groups is a surprise to those who have felt that the Senate, dominated by the Democratic-insurgent coalition, has been giving the agricultural interests almost everything they asked for. Particularly is the demand for an increase in the duty on sugar regarded as surprising in view of the small percentage of farmers actually engaged in the production of this commodity.

A queer alignment of bedfellows results from yesterday's development. The farm groups being placed in practical agreement with such ultra-conservative elements as those represented by Senator David A. Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, who, before he left for the London naval conference, was frank in his expressions of opinion that the Hawley-Smoot bill is dead, and properly so.

California Woman Is Taken for Ride

Estranged Husband Is Held for Questioning; Body Is Mutilated.

Los Angeles, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—The body of Mrs. Billie Payne, 33, was found early today on the Long Beach-Los Angeles highway and police said the woman apparently had been "taken for a ride" by enemies who beat her to death and threw her body from an automobile.

Price E. Payne, a concessionaire of Long Beach, estranged husband of the woman, was arrested for questioning. He told police he had not seen his wife recently. Payne said they were married last August 2 and they separated seventeen days later after he learned of her friendship with a San Francisco man whom he believed to be a rumrunner.

An investigation disclosed that parts of the woman's clothing and jewelry had been scattered along the road for a quarter of a mile. One arm had been torn from the body and the skull was fractured. The woman's father, William T. Key, said he believed she had been "taken for a ride" because he was aware his daughter knew of the activities of a group of rumrunners.

Evolution Proved Fact, Forum Speaker Avers

Declaring that every stage in the evolution of man is proven by "exhibits in glass cages in museums," Hugh F. Munro, chairman of the Physical Society for Psychical Research, speaking at the Washington Open Forum at the Annapolis Hotel yesterday asserted that evolution is no longer a theory, but a demonstrated fact. His remark was in answer to a contention by Samuel Saloman, who declared that evolution is still only a hypothesis.

Dr. George O. Tibbetts, Mrs. Emma M. Marsh, Mrs. Gertrude E. Mackenzie, T. U. Cargill, Alfred W. Dietz, Henry W. Selah, J. B. Chamberlain, Ross Black, Ambrose E. Collier and others took part in the general discussion. Representative Sol Bloom, of New York, will address the Forum next Sunday on "The Calendar and Its Relations to Blue Laws." The Forum is about to start a drive for 10,000 members and will maintain headquarters at the Annapolis during the campaign, it was announced.

GARVIN BOARD CALLS KIDNAP WITNESSES

Charges, Counter Charges Fly in Detroit's Police Investigation.

INSPECTORS' FEUD TOLD

Detroit, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—A police trial board will reconvene here tomorrow to hear more testimony on which its members will form an opinion as to whether Henry J. Garvin, inspector of detectives, is a friend of the underworld or a feared and hated foe of criminals, worthy of the sixteen citations he has received during his sixteen years in the Detroit police department.

The board must pass on this question, although Garvin is not on trial but is, on the other hand, an invalided witness, carrying his arm in a sling as the result of wounds inflicted by gangsters who forced his automobile to a curb January 2, and emptied their guns, wounding Garvin and an 11-year-old school girl who was passing.

During the two days the board sat last week most of the testimony was about Garvin and the merits of a personal enmity between him and Inspector Robert A. McPherson. The unusual trend of evidence gave a baptism of departmental fire to the chairman of the board, Harold H. Emmons, who became police commissioner eighteen days after Garvin was shot.

Detective Denies Reported Story.

Emmons called the board to try, Detective Adolph Van Coppenolle, who had been quoted as telling William P. Rutledge, former commissioner, that two months before the shooting, Inspector McPherson, head of the black hand squad to which Van Coppenolle then belonged, had tried to engineer a plot to have Garvin killed. Rutledge repeated his story to the board, but Van Coppenolle denied it.

Following along the same lines, Detective Sergt. Max Waldfogel yesterday related that he was familiar with the kidnaping situation in Detroit during the past two years and that the prevalent opinion among many relatives of abducted persons and others was that Garvin was behind the kidnapings.

Garvin Called Double-Crosser.

His testimony was in line with a statement of Van Coppenolle to the board that he had discovered that the "Buga" Moran survivors of Chicago intended to kill Garvin because the inspector had "double-crossed" them by permitting Joseph "Lega" Laman to be tried on another kidnaping charge after he had been convicted of the lesser charge of extortion in the David Cass abduction last summer.

Laman, himself serving a 30-to-40-year term at Jackson Prison, was one of those who denied this statement. He declared in his cell that Garvin is "straight."

Witnesses called for tomorrow include relatives of kidnaped persons, among them Gerson Cass, father of David Cass. The board is turning to them to straighten out the Garvin matter, which far overshadows in public interest the question of whether Van Coppenolle was guilty of "conduct unbecoming an officer" as charged.

Man Wanted on Liquor Charge Is Apprehended

Less than a half-block from Twenty-third and Champlain streets northwest, where he was reported to have abandoned a liquor-laden automobile on January 20, Stanley Christopher, colored, 27 years old, of E street, near Seventeenth street northwest, was arrested Saturday by Eighth Precinct police.

He was charged with transportation and possession of the 8 gallons of liquor declared found in the car, reckless driving and operation of a car after the revocation of permit. Detectives William McEwen and W. R. Laflin said in January they pursued Christopher in a car for more than eight blocks, the pursuit ending when the machine was deserted.

NEW AUTOPSY IS SET ON WIFE OF OFFICER

Col. Granville Sevier, of U. S. Artillery, Again Grants Permission.

$700,000 WILL HELD UP

Honolulu, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Sheriff Patrick Gleason, ex-officio coroner of Honolulu, today said he had been induced to call an inquest and new autopsy upon the body of Mrs. Marion Sevier by the receipt of a letter last January 20 from Maj. W. C. Whitmore, of the United States Army Medical Corps.

Mrs. Sevier, who died in August, 1928, left to her husband, Col. Granville Sevier, of the Sixty-fourth Coast Artillery, an estate valued at $700,000, which she inherited from her mother, Mrs. Riette Shainwald, of New York, who died in 1925. Investigations into Mrs. Sevier's death have delayed settlement of the estate.

Maj. Whitmore, who attended Mrs. Sevier at the Army Hospital during her last illness, in the letter said that his diagnosis of nephritis and enlarged heart at the time of death was based on what he had been told of an illness from scarlet fever in the woman's early life. Since then, the letter said, he learned other physicians who examined Mrs. Sevier eight years prior to her death affirmed an absence of nephritis and heart disease at that time. Maj. Whitmore said he had been given to understand the scarlet fever had caused heart trouble during that time.

Ralph Shainwald, brother of Mrs. Sevier, admitted he furnished Maj. Whitmore the statements of physicians who examined his sister eight years prior to her death. Mr. Shinwald has been in Honolulu since last April and attended the autopsy, which the Department of Justice arranged at his request.

Col. Sevier advised the sheriff he was anxious to cooperate with authorities and gave permission for a second autopsy on the body, which is in a vault awaiting shipment to the mainland.

Col. Sevier was located at Fort Slocum, N. Y., when he first met Marion Shainwald. They were married in Baltimore on November 13, 1926.

Capital Zoologist Dies of Pneumonia

Funeral to Be Held Tomorrow for Aid at National Park.

Arthur B. Baker, assistant director of the National Zoological Park, who died Saturday at his home, will be buried tomorrow afternoon. Services will be held in Hysong's Funeral Home at 3 o'clock. Interment will be private. Mr. Baker was widely known for his work in the field of science and his scientific knowledge of animals. He had been ill for some time of bronchial pneumonia.

With the exception of one furlough Mr. Baker had served continuously from 1890 at the National Zoological Park here. He had made several trips to different quarters of the world in gathering collections for the Zoo. Mr. Baker had specialized in mammals, although he had a vast knowledge of birds and reptiles.

He is survived by his widow, a son, Arthur Baker, a student in the medical school of George Washington University, and three daughters, Mrs. Phillip Wells, of Princeton, N. J.; Mrs. P. D. Gibson, of Radnor, Va., and Miss May Baker. He made his home at 1767 Lanier place.

London Man Robbed in Hotel.

Carl Mathieson, of London, England, informed police yesterday that his overcoat and $35 in cash was stolen from his room at the Pennsylvania Hotel, F street northwest near North Capitol street, during the night. He named a suspect to Sixth Precinct police.

THREE CIVIC LEADERS JOIN CROSBY FIGHT

Trio, Invited to Conference, Signify Intention of Attendance.

PLANS WILL BE MAPPED

The three civic organization heads who were invited to attend a conference called by Edward J. Murphy, president of the Board of Trade, to discuss plans for opposing the appointment of Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby as District Commissioner, yesterday said they would attend the meeting.

Charles W. Darr, president of the Chamber of Commerce, declared that as a representative of the chamber he would lend his support to any move decided upon to block the confirmation of the military man. Last week the organization sent a letter of protest to President Hoover.

Maj. Gen. Anton Stephan, president of the Merchants & Manufacturers Association, and Dr. George C. Havenner, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, declined to say what their attitude would be at the conference because neither body has taken a formal stand on the issue yet. It is understood, however, that they will be sympathetic to the movement opposing the nomination.

Just what steps will be taken at the conference have not been determined yet, Mr. Murphy said last night. The campaign will be mapped after the other civic leaders have offered suggestions.

His address treated the involuntary and indirect influence of one individual upon another, and the responsibility of one for failures through involuntary and unintentional expression of personality. He was a special dinner guest at the residence of the Howard University president yesterday.

Holdup Men Use Rifle To Rob Taxi Man of $13

Two Negroes last night held up Herman Stein, a taxi driver living at 634 Lamont street northwest, and robbed him at the point of a rifle of $13. They made their escape.

Stein said that the pair hired him to drive to an address on upper Ninth street. He said that when he arrived at that point, the men threatened to shoot him if he failed to hand over his money. Stein believes the men must have had the rifle concealed in a trousers leg until they wished to use it.

By JAMES HAY, JR.

AN incident illustrating the gorgeous sense of humor with which William Howard Taft adorned the days when he went against the political game.

Following his nomination for the Presidency by the Chicago convention in 1908, he went to Hot Springs, Va., to play golf and hold as few political conferences as possible prior to the business of going out on a speaking tour.

He disliked politics and made no secret of the fact, but the politicians sought him out in large numbers. As usual every man who wanted a job knew how to win the election and insisted on giving the candidate the glad news. That sort of thing bored Mr. Taft to the limit, but his gift of humor enabled him to stand it. He was continually getting a laugh out of events and people.

* * * *

ONE bright sunshiny morning he was in conference with the newspapermen. In those halcyon days a presidential candidate was "covered" only by seven or eight correspondents, and Mr. Taft treated them as if they were members of his family, discussing affairs and persons with them freely.

On this occasion he was in a hurry to get out on the golf links and said so.

"There's no news today, gentlemen," he told them; "and I suppose you're no more anxious to work than I am. If there are no question you want to ask, we'll adjourn the meeting."

HE was reaching for his cap when in came his secretary, Fred Carpenter, whom he later made minister to Morocco, then the only country in civilization that did not contain a single-wheeled vehicle.

"Judge Taft," said Carpenter, obviously reluctant to break the bad news, "there's a gentleman demanding to see you." He named the visitor, a politician, of course.

The caller was more notorious than famous. He could swing votes, had been swinging them in large blocks for years and, from all appearances, would continue to round them up with impressive efficiency for a good while to come. But he was regarded as distinctly "on the bias" in the matter of principle. In brief, he had been described more than once as a crook.

* * * *

AT the announcement of his presence, Mr. Taft looked resigned, changed his mood and began to frown. His feeling changed once more and he smiled. His facial play in that brief moment in which he switched from irritability to laughter was wonderful. If he had not been a great jurist and statesman, he could have made his living on the stage as a mimic.

His eyebrows went up, his smile broadened, he chuckled, he gave the newspaper men a look of mock compassion.

"Put your hands on your watches, boys," he said in a tone of exaggerated alarm. "I'm going to let him in."

DREYFUS CASE QUIZ AWAITS DOWD TODAY

Appearance of Broker Is in Doubt as Subpena Has Not Been Served.

DATA ON ALIBI EXPECTED

Resumption of the grand jury investigation of the death of Mrs. Aurelia Dreyfus is set for today when James E. Dowd, Chicago broker, is scheduled to testify. It appeared doubtful last night, however, that Mr. Dowd would reach Washington in time to present his testimony today, as according to latest information from Chicago, the subpena issued here by Assistant District Attorney Neil Burkinshaw had not yet been served upon him.

Mr. Dowd was formerly a business associate and close friend of Edmund J. McBrien, New York broker, who escorted Mrs. Dreyfus to a dance which terminated in her death when she fell or was pushed from a balcony of the Potomac Boat Club here October 20.

Members of Mrs. Dreyfus' family have advanced the theory, in affidavits presented to the grand jury, that she might has been "removed" because she knew too much about the death of Dot King, who was murdered in her luxurious New York apartment in 1923.

At that time Mrs. Dreyfus supplied an alibi for Alfred E. Guimares, another partner of McBrien and lover of the King girl. Later, according to the affidavits, Mrs. Dreyfus told her mother and sisters that she had been forced by McBrien to perjure herself to protect Guimares.

Mr. Dowd is believed to have important information regarding this disputed alibi, and the subjena was issued for him when he agreed to "spill the works, no matter who may be hurt," provided he was formally sworn before a grand jury.

BANKS TO GIVE AID TO CHEST CAMPAIGN

paign chairman, yesterday. "We are getting proffers of assistance from all sides, and many are signing the little pink 'success' cards calling for additional subscriptions over amounts already pledged. There are still a large number of people who have not given and who, I believe, will give. In fact, knowing Washington as I do, I just can not believe that the city will fail in as important a task as this. I have faith that the people will rally to the support of the Chest during these last two days and put it across."

Banks and their "Community Chest tellers" who will receive pledges beginning today are as follows:

American Security & Trust Co., C. E. Howe; Anacostia Bank, Mr. Koontz; Bank of Brightwood, R. L. Schreiner; Bank of Commerce and Savings, Mr. Riordon; Chevy Chase Savings Bank, Mr. Troth; Columbia National Bank, Mr. Lacey; Commercial National Bank, Mr. Cox; Crane Parris & Co., Mr. Harper; Departmental Bank, Mr. Exnicios; District National Bank, Mr. Offutt, jr.; East Washington Savings Bank, Mr. Earnshaw; Federal-American National Bank, Mr. Waller; Franklin National Bank, Mr. Thrift; W. B. Hibbs & Co., Mr. Spaid; International Bank, Mr. Waller; International Exchange Bank, Mr. Kaufman, jr.; Liberty National Bank, Mr. McQuade; Lincoln National Bank, Mr. Soper; McLachlen Banking Corporation, Archibald McLachen; Merchants Bank & Trust Co., F. P. Harman, jr.; Morris Plan Bank, Mr. Barker; Mount Vernon Savings Bank, Mr. Highfield; Munsey Trust Co., Mr. Ratcliffe; National Bank of Washington, J. F. White; National Capital Bank, Mr. McKee; National Metropolitan Bank, Mr. Jacobsen; National Savings & Trust Co., Mr. Lamborn; North Capitol Savings Bank, Mr. Michael; Northeast Savings Bank, Mr. Lewis; Park Savings Bank, Mr. Stunz; Potomac Savings Bank, Mr. Shoemaker; Riggs National Bank, Mr. Vass; Second National Bank, Mr. Marlow; Security Savings and Commercial Bank, Mr. Leith; Seventh Street Savings Bank, Mr. Howard; Union Trust Co., Mr. Zirpel; United States Savings Bank, Mr. DeLashmutt; Washington Loan & Trust Co., Mr. Endicott; Washington Mechanics Savings Bank, Mr. Groom; Washington Savings Bank, Mr. Leonard.

"Givers of all amounts are still needed," Elwood Street, director of the Community Chest, said last night. "No gift is too small if it really represents the person's ability to give and good will toward the 75 appeals, combined, which otherwise would have to be made separately. More gifts, 20,000 more at least, of less than $500, down to $5, are needed. On the other hand, more gifts of more than $500 are needed. We have not reached 50 per cent of our quota in gifts of $500 and more as we should have. The campaign can be a success only if those of moderate means as well as the well-to-do give as they can and will. We need many increases in every class of giving over gifts already made as well as many new gifts, if the Chest is to attain its goal."

Arrest Follows Drug Purchase Try

Salesman Presented Forged Prescription at Store, Police Declare.

Owen Hughes Morris, 39-year-old salesman, was arrested i na downtown drug store shortly before midnight last night when he presented an alleged prescription calling for morphine.

The man was held by the manager of the store on a pretext while Detective Sergeants Steve Bordie and Frank Varney rushed there in an automobile He was boked on a technical charge of "investigation" and sent to the Sixth Precinct.

The blank on which the prescription was written was obtained, police learned, from a physician who had been treating Morris' sick wife. The physician, living in the Rochambeau Apartments, was notified by police that the prescription was being held up, and he is said to have told them that he had not written it. Morris gave his address as Belmont street, near Fourteenth street northwest.

The British Airmen Bert Hinkler made the trip in 15 days in February, 1928.

TAFT MAKES GAINS IN BATTLE FOR LIFE

Physicians State Former Jurist Is Able to Talk Coherently.

CAN NOW EAT SOFT FOOD

(Associated Press.)

William Howard Taft pushed further upward yesterday in his battle to throw off the grave illness which brought him back from Asheville, N. C., last week in a state of near collapse.

For the first time since his return, his mind had sufficiently cleared to permit recognition of all those about him. The disconnected sentences which had been the extent of his conversations gave way to more normal control of his faculties, and the well-known Taft smile began to show itself in flashes.

At the same time it was said that the distinguished jurist's nourishment was no longer restricted to broth. At one time, when his illness was at its most critical stage, it was the lack of ability to take food that caused much concern.

Attending physicians of the former President, Dr. S. Thomas Claytor and Francis R. Hagner, continue to watch closely over their patient despite the improvement, and warned that he is still seriously ill from the general breakdown of his circulatory system, complicated by an old bladder ailment and a weakened heart.

After their visit late yesterady the physicians felt that a bulletin of Mr. Taft's condition was unnecessary.

There were no callers yesterday at the Taft residence, except the physicians. The family has been joined by Mrs. Helen Taft Manning, a daughter, who came to the Capital City from Bryn Mawr College, where she is a member of the faculty.

Adm. Hughes Reported As Slightly Improved

Admiral Charles F. Hughes, chief of naval operations, who is undergoing treatment for an "incomplete mild stroke of paralysis," was reported yesterday as slightly improved.

Commander L. L. Pratt, M. C., U. S. N., attending physician, announced yesterday that there was an improvement in the condition of his patient. Since the attack last Thursday Admiral Hughes has been confined to bed at his home in the Naval Observatory. His condition is reported as not serious.

and political life, and the brand of the criminal upon the manufacturer and seller of intoxicants would be succeedeed by an interrogation point of semilegality wnich would psychologically and actually change the status of liquor traffickers.

"Evidently, if, as claimed by 2.75 per cent beer advocates, the present law can not be enforced without these legalized centers of beer manufacturers and distribution, the same lawless element will continue to demand high-power beers and spirits with greatly increased opportunity to violate the law. Moreover, the fact that numerous physicians may testify that 2.75 per cent beer is not intoxicating for some men, does not change the fact that it is intoxicating to many men and women, and the eighteenth amendment prohibits traffic in intoxicants, not among hard-boiled sections but among all the people.

Product of Enemies.

"The bill is the product of enemies of prohibition and if passed will make prohibition enforcement impossible until declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court as subversive of the purpose of the amendment.

"The solution of the present situation is for Congress to adopt such legislation and provide whatever money and men are necessary to convince the present rebels against prohibition, that the Government will suppress rebellion wherever found even though incited or supported as their whisky rebellion has been, by a section of the metropolitan press.

"To brand the buyer as equally criminal with the seller is now of prime importance.

"Attorney General Mitchell is right in banning all violators of the eighteenth amendment from positions in the enforcement department and that should apply to all departments of the Government."

Baby Burned When Cup Of Coffee Overturns

Donald Cheney, 18 months old, was burned on the face and body last night when he overturned a cup of coffee at the home of his parents, 1212 I street northeast. Donald was toddling about the kitchen of the house. He reached to the table and grasped the cup, filled with steaming coffee.

He was taken to the Casualty Hospital by his father, James Chaney, where he was treated by Dr. J. Rogers Young. He was later taken home.

Bones of Ancient Alaskans May Supply Clew to Origin

Objects Found in Mounds Near Point Barrow Resemble Those of Thule Culture, in Siberian Wastes Across Bering Strait.

Philadelphia, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Relics of a people who lived in Alaska thousands of years ago, and who differed greatly from the present day Eskimo, have been received by the University of Pennsylvania Museum from the expedition near Point Barrow, it was announced today.

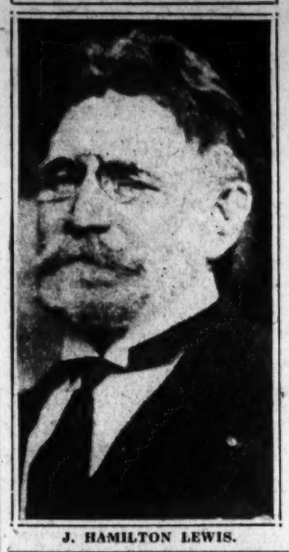
The collection includes objects of wood, ivory and whalebone and a quantity of skeletal material. This material, according to Dr. J. Alden Mason, curator of the American section of the museum, is typical of an early population known to archeologists as the Thule culture. These people may have been an offshoot from Mongolian tribes, who once wandered over the Siberian wastes and crossed the Bering Sea into Alaska.

In a report to the museum here, Alfred H. Hopson, director of the Alaskan expedition, said that discovery of several human bones protruding from a mound led to the finding of the burial place of more than 30 bodies.

None of the graves was more than 2 feet deep. The bodies had been placed on driftwood planks. Various implements were found between posts hammered into the ground about 4 feet from either side of the head. There were no coffins, each body having been wrapped in animal skins.

Further excavation revealed several unique houses, unlike the conventional Eskimo igloo. They were rectangular in shape and constructed of whalebone and driftwood, similar to houses used by people of the Thule culture on the east coast of Siberia.

HITS DRY LAW



J. HAMILTON LEWIS.

J. HAMILTON LEWIS SEEKS SENATE SEAT

Hits Dry Law Enforcement in Seeking Nomination by Democrats.

ATTACKS WORLD COURT

Chicago, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Condemning existing methods of prohibition enforcement, protesting against American entry into the World Court, and demanding changes in taxation and government expenditure, James Hamilton Lewis, of Chicago, former Democratic United States Senator, today agreed to be again a candidate for that office.

Mr. Lewis was chosen last week by a subcommittee of the party's State committee to seek the Democratic nomination at the coming April primary.

"This Nation asks temperance in the hobits of its mandkind, and it prays that these may be induced by free religion and enforced by just laws," he asid in his statement of acceptance. "It protests against any system of laws or procedure that invokes trespass on the homes, invasion of the family, violation of the privacy of life and the mortally wounding of citizens as a method of so-called law enforcement. Such action is not political morality, but national tyranny."

The candidate declared that farmers were being deceived "by specious of relief."

Turning to the World Court, he said:

"While all Americans favor cooperating with any association to the purpose of world peace and brotherhood of man, we protest against the forcing of the United States into any foreign controlled tribunal which from prejudice or interest can involve the United States into discredit or wars."

ARMSTRONG IS HELD TO HAVE HEAVY COLD

and has been in the Public Health Service since 1916.

Meanwhile, the Associated Press reported the death yesterday of Mrs. Anna Bina Heathcote, 69, at Hillside, N. J., from the disease, which brings the total deaths to 16 since the fever broke out a month ago at Annapolis, Md.

Mrs. Heathcote acquired the disease from a parrot she purchased in a New York bird store at Christmas time. Her death was the third from the fever reported in New Jersey.

Slight improvement was reported by the Associated Press yesterday in the condition of Dr. William Royal Stokes, Baltimore health department official, who is ill from the fever. Attending physicians, however, said his condition is still serious.

Dr. Daniel S. Hatfield, another health department official, stricken by the malady a fortnight ago, is reported to have suffered a relapse yesterday, his temperature rising from normal to 104. The relapse was attributed by his doctor to a blood clot on the lung, common in psittacosis. Dr. C. Hampton Jones, commissioner of health at Baltimore, who has been watching both physicians, also said he believes the clot will clear up satisfactorily.

It was determined yesterday that Miss Maude Alders, who is being treatde for the disease at a Baltimore hospital, does not have the malady, but her symptoms are in some respects similar to the disease.

In the meantime, Baltimore health officers were making plans to secure blood from persons in Cambridge, Aberdeen and Annapolis, who have recovered from the disease, for use in making serum believed to be the only protection for persons who have come in contact with diseased parrots.

Dr. Robert H. Bailey, head of the Maryland State health department, said the death rate from the parrot disease is higher than either typhoid or pneumonia. He declared that of ten positive cases in New York State there have been three fatalities. He stated that Maryland had been exceptionately fortunate in not having a higher death rate.

NEW FINANCIAL PLAN OUTLINED IN CHICAGO

Bankrupt City Would Tempt Tax Warrant Buyers With Premiums.

FOES SCORN PROPOSAL

Chicago, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—The latest scheme for steering Chicago out of its financial straits, reported to be under consideration by city and school authorities, is to grant premiums to purchasers of tax anticipation warwrants in addition to the regular 6 per cent interest.

In the hope of attracting purchasers for the warrants, which will be redeemed when the long delayed taxes are collected, Mayor William Hale Thompson and H. Wallace Caldwell, president of the board of education, were reported today as being willing to give buyers of warrants a substantial profit as a bonus for helping out the community in this time of need.

The warrants would be sold at discount, under the new plan, but would be redeemed at par when the taxes start coming in, probably in June.

After conferences between city authorities and Herbert C. Heller, New York investment banker, City Comptroller Schmidt is quoted as saying he had hopes of selling the city's entire block of $27,200,000 worth of tax warrants to a syndicate headed by Mr. Heller.

It is certain that such a plan would meet with opposition in some quarters. The Chicago banks have already issued a warning against acceptance of scrip, pointing out the consequences of depreciated currency, and Silas H. Strawn, head of the citizens' rescue committe, has criticized the proposal as "wasteful of the taxpayers' money and detrimental to the citizens."

Meanwhile, another of the city's creditors accepted tax warrants in payment for overdue bills. The F. J. Ringley Co. took $50,000 worth of the scrip for printing.

join in opposing such use of the organization."

Dr. Parker, now engaged in private practice in New York, in addition to being widely known in the field of sociology, has been a national leader in women's club circles for many years. She resigned last year as president of the National Council of Women, after holding the post four years. In 1920 she was much in the public eye in the Government post of executive secretary of the Interdepartmental Social Hygiene Bureau at Washington, the organization devoted to the welfare and morals of soldiers and sailors.

Her resignation revives the charges of militarism and narrow-mindedness hurled against the D. A. R. two years ago after the making public of the celebrated D. A. R. "blacklist." This was a list of prominent persons and organizations whom the D. A. R. considered "dangerous" in their teachings or viewpoints on national and social questions. Dr. Parker mertions this list as one of the reasons for her resignation.

"Among the organizations are several which I have served or am serving as a board member," she wrote. "Included are the National League of Women Voters, the National Congress of Parents and Teachers and the Women's Christian Temperance Union. Among organizations of which I am a dues-paying member are the American Association of University Women, the Young Women's Christian Association and the League of Nations Nonpartisan Association. I am rendering active service for the Federal Council of Churches, also on the lists.

"The denial of this circulation of lists in the face of generally known facts does not give me confidence in the administration of the National Society of the D. A. R."

Colombia Voting Results in Doubt

Official Count in Race for President Is Unknown; Five Hurt in Row.

Bogota, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Colombia voted for a new president today, but the results of the voting will not be announced officially until Thursday.

Early returns indicated that Senor Olaya Herrera had carried Bogota by about 20,000 votes and led in the cities of Medellin, Cali and Menizales. He is Colombian Minister to Washington and candidate of the Liberal party.

Five persons were hurt in a scuffle with police at the town of Florida. Reports from the country generally, however, indicated that the elections had passed off calmly. Guillermo Valencia, poet candidate of one branch of the Conservative party, carried Cartagena, Bucaramanca, Popayan, Tunja and other towns.

mother, Mrs. C. O. Weaver, that the girl had returned to her home. Later, he confessed that the visit home was for the purpose of getting an ax.

After that Weaver drove his automobile past the victim's home several times and talked to her brother. Weaver had been divorced while Mrs. Echardt was separated last spring from Ronald Echardt, whom she married when she was 16.

Showered With Attentions.

Authorities are trying to locate the husband.

Weaver met Mrs. Echardt in a restaurant a month ago, officers learned, and since had showered his attentions on her daily, posing as a deputy sheriff and Federal officer. On Friday he invited her to go skiing yesterday. Her mother, who knew of the expedition, waited up for the girl to return home and was notified of her death at 2 a. m. today by the officers who found the body.

The slayer often appeared on the street in cowboy costume and at times carried various sorts of badges, one of which was taken from him recently by Chief of Police Peter Hansen.

At times he worked as a laborer for the city, which employs his father as a foreman.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Capital Study Clubs Historic In Social Life

Groups Go Back Into Years, to Trace Interesting Facts of Origin.

A recent story of the Evermay Club, a group of Georgetown residents organized a score of years ago, has brought to light interesting reminiscences of other study clubs, which go back into the years for their origins, but which are yet going strong.

Wives and daughters of Government officials and of the many distinguished scientists, who foregather in Washington, with other like-minded folk, wish to keep up with current events and consequently there is always a waiting list for the Eistophos Science Club and for the Seymour Study Club. The latter is named for its founder, Mrs. Henry W. Seymour, who is still honorary president.

When she started the club 35 years ago Mrs. Seymour's husband was a member of Congress from Michigan. The little circle, which met weekly in private houses, soon became so popular that it became necessary to limit its membership.

The Eistophos Club is even older than the Seymour Club, having been organized in 1893. Mrs. Horatio King, whose husband was Postmaster General in the Cleveland administration, was one of the founders. The membership of the group has always been made up of stimulating persons who keep up with developments in the field of science. At its monthly meetings the roll call brings from each member present a scientific item, after which two papers are read. These papers, to which time and study have been devoted, always receive close attention and are followed by animated discussion.

Mrs. Austin H. Clark is a recent president of the Eistophos Club and its present leader is Mrs. Lawrence Martin.

Debutates to Figure Spring Activities.

Washington, unlike many cities, devotes only its winter months to the debutantes, but this spring we will have a debutante who receives much attention.

Miss Frances Virginia Waggaman, daughter of Maj. and Mrs. Ennalls Waggaman, who went to China for an extended stay instead of making her debut in the early winter as she planned, is expected home now about the first of April. If she gets here then as her parents expect, they will present her.

Miss Waggaman went to China in June with Commander and Mrs. Daniel McElduff to spend six months. But she enjoyed the Orient so much that she delayed her return again and again. She is now in the Philippines and has done much traveling among the islands and in that part of the world. She had planned to come home by the way of Europe and was to be presented at the Court of St. James before coming home, but that has been delayed until next season.

Maj. and Mrs. Waggaman left yesterday for Daytona, Fla., where Mrs. Waggaman will remain a month or more. Maj. Waggaman will return about the middle of the week. After a stay in Washington of a couple of days he will go to Canada for a fortnight's enjoyment of the winter sports there.

The Hon. Sophie Watson, daughter of Lord and Lady Thankerton of Edinburgh and London, who was the guest of Maj. and Mrs. Waggaman this winter, will return in the spring for another visit. Since leaving here she has been staying with friends in Canada and New York and is now en route to Florda to stay for a while before coming back to Washington.

Mrs. Burdette Wright and her mother, Mrs. Phil Campbell, wife of former Representative Campbell, will sail on February 21 for Europe to remain until April.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Parsons Irwin will leave Washington on Saturday for Florida, where they will join the latter's mother, Mrs. Delos A. Blodgett for a month's visit.

Mrs. Frederick Wahl Warner, of Richmond, Va., is the guest of Miss Ethel Carpenter, of 3616 Connecticut avenue, for several days. Mrs. Warner was formerly Miss Mary Patricia Gray, of this city and Annapolis, Md.

Judge Harry Covington and his daughter, Miss Anne Covington, will leave tonight for Nassau. Miss Covington will remain a month, but Judge Covington will return in about two weeks.

Judge and Mrs. Covington entertained at luncheon yesterday at their home on Wyoming avenue.

The fourth meeting of the 1929-30 season of the Massachusetts Society of Washington, D. C., will be held Tuesday evening, February 18, at Wardman Park Hotel. Dancing will begin promptly at 9 o'clock.

Pinchots Give Tea and Tell Of South Seas

Former Governor's Son Is Writing Book on Journey.

Entertaining for the members of the Women's National Press Club, Mr. and Mrs. Gifford Pinchot were hosts at a delightful tea yesterday afternoon, prefacing the party with the showing of motion pictures taken on their recent glamorous trip to the South Sea Islands. With former Gov. Pinchot as cicerone, telling of the party's many adventures, guests followed the course of the Mary Pinchot half across the world and visited with the ship's company little known islands, where wild birds were as tame as chickens and where seals frolicked with members of the party as amiably as puppies.

The journey to the Galapagos Islands, the Marquessas and other far away dream islands was undertaken, according to Gov. Pinchot, as the result of plans discussed when he and Judge Woodruff were sophomores at Yale, "anywhere from 60 to 125 years ago." When the time came for them to be carried out, Judge Woodruff could not go, but he and Mrs. Woodruff are now guests of Mr. and Mrs. Pinchot, viewing the pictures and hearing the tale of the trip yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Pinchot is now at work on a book telling of the journey, of the adventures encountered, the scientific data acquired and the many rare specimens collected for the scientific agencies which had sponsored the trip. But the first volume dealing with the cruise of the Mary Pinchot is even now ready for the publishers — the work of Gifford Pinchot, jr. The lad, who, with a young friend for his companion, made the trip with Mr. and Mrs. Pinchot, has turned out 25,000 or 30,000 words, a rare adventure story for boys by a boy, which should have a tremendous appeal.

Husband Had to Do Her Work

"When my baby was a month old, I took a heavy cold and after that I felt miserable. Could not lift anything. My husband had to help me with the housework. I was so weak I could not do a washing. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the Kittaning paper and I gave it a good trial. Before I had taken half a bottle, I found the difference. $50,000 Fraud Suit Hearing To Culminate 10-Year Hunt

Woman Seeks to Recover Sum, Claiming Maryland Man, While in Paris, Sold Her Corporation Shares Which Proved Spurious.

The climax of a search of nearly 10 years will be reached Saturday when a hearing will be started in Prince Georges County Circuit Court in Upper Marlboro in the suit to recover $50,000, filed by Mrs. Margaret Barker Pflucker against Richard H. Sears, prominent land owner of Leonardtown, Md.

Mrs. Pflucker alleges that while in Paris in 1920 she purchased from Sears, who represented himself as an official of the La Paz Oil Corporation, certificates of stock in the corporation which later proved to be spurious.

According to the suit, which was filed in February, 1926, at La Plata, county seat of St. Mary's County, Mrs. Pflucker met Sears and his wife, Mrs. Eve V. Sears, who is named as codefendant, in Paris and he induced her to invest $50,000 in the concern.

After the Searses left Paris, Mrs. Pflucker alleges, she discovered that the certificate she had received was worthless, although the company itself is of good repute. She charges that Sears did not pay in the money to the company, but pocketed it himself and issued her a spurious certificate.

Sears could not be found by Mrs. Pflucker for several years, but some time ago was found living in New York. Recently he has been at Society Hill, Leonardtown, former home of W. Bernard Duke, now owned by Sears.

The suit was filed by former State's Attorney Robert F. Leach, jr., and L. Allison Wilmer, St. Mary's County attorneys. The St. Mary's County Circuit Court upheld a demurrer filed by the defense, and the plaintiff carried the case to the Court of Appeals at Annapolis, where the demurrer was set aside and the hearing ordered.

Mrs. Pflucker is represented in the present action by Ellis, Ferguson, Houghton & Gary, attorney of Washington; Janney, Ober, Shlingluff & Williams, of Baltimore, and Philip D'Orsey, of Leonardtown. She and her husband reside in Washington.

Dean Finds Crime Deadlier Than War

Dr. Wilkinson Says Murder Takes Place Every 55 Minutes.

"Crime today is causing 40 per cent more deaths than the World War," Dr. B. G. Wilkinson, dean of theology, Washington Missionary College, said last night at the L'Aiglon Auditorium, Eighteenth and Columbia road northwest.

"Unless the ministers of the gospel succeed in doing as Ramsay MacDonald appealed to those of England to do, 'create a new temper among men by which righteousness shall be placed above force,' organized crime will destroy that confidence and courage necessary to sustain Government."

"A murder occurs in the United States every 55 minutes. In one year since the war New York City had a murder for every day. That same year Chicago was still worse. The Bible speaks of the time when 'the earth was filled with violence.' The Lord Jesus prophesied that that condition would return in our day unless we sought God and from the Moral Governor of the universe we learned and discharged our duty."

Man Is Arrested On Larceny Count

Woman Charges He Failed to Give Her Proceeds of $500 Note.

Carl Brown Riddle, 41 years old, of S street near Eighteenth street northwest, was arrested in his residence yesterday morning by Detective Sergts. W. J. Debuskey and William Messer on charges of larceny after trust. He was booked at the Third Precinct Station and released on $1,000 bond.

The complainant is Mrs. Bertha M. Durant, of 1738 F street northwest, who charged that last October she signed a note for $500 for the purpose of giving a part of the amount to Riddle to finance him selling historical pictures.

She charged, according to police, that Riddle executed the note but failed to turn over the money to her. Riddle has a wife and two children.

SPYING UPON FEDERAL OFFICIALS.

It is disclosed that the spies utilized by the chairman of a subcommittee of the House committee on appropriations were furnished by the Bureau of Efficiency. The espionage was directed against the justices of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. Individuals whose identity is not revealed were required to keep the justices under surveillance, to determine the length of time they devoted to the actual hearing of cases. The secret reports of these anonymous individuals were delivered to the subcommittee chairman, who apparently accepted them at face value, and used them as "evidence" in the inquisition of the justices.

Apparently neither house of Congress has authorized any of its committees to command the services of Bureau of Efficiency personnel for espionage purposes. The law creating the Bureau of Efficiency makes no provision for utilizing its personnel as spies or detectives at the behest of any member or committee of Congress.

The general duty of the Bureau of Efficiency to investigate the methods of business in the Government service appears to have been distorted into a gross and abominable abuse of authority. The matter calls for the scrutiny of the Comptroller General. Under what law can vouchers for espionage be allowed? To what extent has the espionage system been installed, through the abuse of the authority of the Bureau of Efficiency? Are all the committees of Congress using Bureau of Efficiency spies and detectives, or is this abuse confined to one subcommittee of the House committee on appropriations? If one subcommittee can lawfully use the Bureau of Efficiency for espionage purposes, others can do so. If the system is proper it should be impartially and universally applied, so that no public official shall escape surveillance. Spies should dog the footsteps of the President, the Chief Justice, all senators and representatives, and officers of the executive and judicial departments, the Army and Navy, and the independent establishments, including the head of the Bureau of Efficiency.

The question of the credibility of spies would eventually arise. Some harassed official would turn upon the new system of Government by espionage and would demand proof of the truth of charges laid against him. This would present a serious problem, since there is at present no secondary spy system to keep surveillance over the spies in the Bureau of Efficiency. But if Congress has decided to establish the espionage system it can easily create a super-espionage department to keep an eye upon all spies.

It is an insult to the justices of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia to subject them to surveillance unless such espionage is lawful and applicable to all Federal officers.

INDUSTRIALIZING THE FARM.

Well known in the agricultural world is Thomas D. Campbell, of Hardin, Mont., head of the Campbell Farming Corporation, and advocate of industrialized agriculture. Mr. Campbell is now in the East with a plan to grow wheat and other crops on 50,000 to 100,000 acre farms close to the southern Atlantic seaboard, storing the crop in the old Shipping Board freighters that are being allowed to rot away, and shipping without transferal to Liverpool, the center of the world wheat market. The industrialized farms he contemplates, says Mr. Campbell, will be able to lay down wheat in Liverpool at a saving of 52 cents a bushel as compared with the prevailing price.

Mr. Campbell has operated industrialized farms with great success. In Montana he cultivates a 50,000-acre unit with but 50 men, each of whom is paid $5 a day plus a mileage allowance for the ground covered by his tractor. The future of agriculture in Mr. Campbell's opinion, is bound up in industrialization. Farms must be run like factories. By-products must be utilized. Labor-saving machinery must be introduced wherever possible. Large units must be made the rule. Production units must be scattered all over the country, so as to minimize the hazards of weather.

Does the mechanized, industrialized farm hold hope of relief for agriculture? It may be admitted that crops should be produced more economically on factory-farms, but the farmers are already producing surpluses, and the need is not for increased production but for the salvation of the individual farmer. The future of agriculture may be bound up in mechanization, but the future of farm relief is another matter. Large-scale operations, able to produce at a cost beneath the general level, complicate the process of administering political farm relief.

DIVIDED AUTHORITY.

Any unity of action which might have been secured by transfer of the Prohibition Bureau from the Treasury to the Department of Justice has been nullified by the provision in the House bill that the heads of the two departments shall have joint authority to control distribution of industrial alcohol. The only excuse for this provision is that it would "coordinate" the agencies charged with enforcing prohibition. But as the measure passed the House, authority to regulate the output of industrial alcohol is left hopelessly divided.

The bill provides that the two departments shall jointly make regulations for the issuance of permits. This leaves neither with the responsibility, and neither with the authority to act without the consent of the other. Nothing but hopeless confusion can be the result.

Added to this confusion of authority is a phrase giving the Attorney General a veto power against any permit for use of industrial alcohol for more than 90 days. The Attorney General would become the watch dog over the Treasury. It seems to be assumed by the House that the Treasury is not competent to manage its own business. It needs a guardian to see that permits are not issued to bootleggers and rumrunners. Such a theory can not be tolerated under the American system of government.

Attempts are being made on every hand to change fundamentals of the Federal Government so that they will fit the notions of fanatics for the enforcement of prohibition. This idea of giving one department a veto on the acts of another is akin to the scheme to railroad individuals through the Federal courts without jury trials. Carried out to its logical conclusion, this tendency would soon convert the Government into a special agency for the enforcement of a single law.

A COURT OF CRIMINAL APPEALS.

While the country is deeply concerned over the broken health of Mr. Taft, it is timely to consider ways and means of relieving the Supreme Court of unnecessary burdens. In recent years, thanks to Chief Justice Taft, the court has made a marvelous record for prompt consideration of all cases sent up to it, but not without overtaxing the strength and energy of its members. The importance of the Supreme Court in the national life demands that it have ample time for interpretation of the Constitution and decision of cases which affect the lives and fortunes of the people. Nothing can be gained by keeping the court overburdened with minor cases, or by providing too few justices on the supreme bench.

A plan for relieving the Supreme Court and strengthening the judicial system has been evolved by Charles W. Freeman, president of the Bar of the United States. He proposes the establishment of a single court of criminal appeals. At present all appeals from decisions of United States district courts go to the Circuit Courts of Appeals. Under the proposed arrangement these courts would handle appeals in civil cases only. Criminal appeals would go directly to the new Criminal Court of Appeals. Eleven circuit courts are now interpreting the law in their own way. Conflicting decisions are frequent, and confusion in the application of Federal criminal law is the result. The Supreme Court is burdened with the task of ironing out this confusion.

If all criminal appeals went to a single court established especially for that purpose, there could be no conflicting decisions, and consequently few criminal cases would need to go into the Supreme Court. The circuit courts would be relieved of criminal cases. Congestion and delay, two of the serious problems in the administration of justice, would be relieved all down the line. The work of the Supreme Court would be materially reduced.

SOURCES OF LIQUOR.

Prohibition Commissioner Doran's monograph on the industrial alcohol problem stresses the fact that diversion has become increasingly rare. "Critics lacking facts as a basis for their fears," he says, "have greatly magnified the extent and danger of diversions. The truth is that out of a total of 106,960,458 wine gallons of alcohol produced legally in 1929 only a small percentage reached illicit channels through permittees. There is no known method of tracing the exact quantity that may have been diverted."

The problem of prohibition enforcement has been called essentially foursided. Beverage alcohol reaches the consumer from one of four sources; namely, the smuggler, the diverter, the professional distiller and the home manufacturer. In the furore that has raged around prohibition enforcement during the last ten years the public was led to believe that the smuggler and the diverter were the chief offenders. But recently it has become apparent that the Coast Guard has the smuggling situation well in hand, and now the Prohibition Bureau asserts that the diversion of industrial alcohol is slight.

It follows that the professional distiller, or the moonshiner, and the household manufacturer are chiefly responsible for the dampness of America. Dr. Doran points out that "one of the principal sources of illicit alcohol in the hands of bootleggers today is corn sugar, the production of which has risen from 150,000,000 pounds in 1921 to 960,000,000 pounds in the last year." Corn sugar is the raw material from which the moonshiner produces whisky. Disregarding the home manufacturer, who brews beer and ferments wine in his kitchen, it is obvious that the success of prohibition depends upon the campaign to destroy the moonshiner.

In fighting the moonshiner the Government does not dare to relax its vigilance against the smuggler and the diverter. The growth of the moonshine business, as evidenced in the increased production of corn sugar, followed the increased pressure which the Government brought to bear upon the smuggler and the converter. When a reasonably secure barrier was erected against rum row, and when the regulation of industrial alcohol became reasonably effective, those who cater to the Nation's thirst turned naturally to raw materials from which alcohol can be extracted and became primary manufacturers. When smugglers and converters were supplying beverage alcohol the drinking public obtained its liquor from a relatively small number of large distilleries, whereas today liquor comes from a vast number of smaller plants. It will be a far more difficult task to destroy these multitudinous small distilleries than it was to put the smuggler and the converter out of business. When that task is accomplished there will still be the home manufacturer with whom to contend. His number will increase as the destruction of the moonshiner proceeds.

THE BOY SCOUTS.

The Boy Scouts of America will celebrate this week the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the organization. In 1910 the Boy Scouts were incorporated in this city. President Taft accepted the office of honorary president and Colin H. Livingstone was elected president. The organization has grown steadily through the years until today there are enrolled 600,000 boys in this country. In the 20 years of its existence more than 4,000,000 boys have received the benefit of its program of character development and citizen training.

The success of the Boy Scout movement is due primarily to the appeal which outdoor life makes to most boys. Because of this appeal it is not difficult to apply the program of character development and citizen training. By stressing loyalty, trustworthiness, thrift, cooperativeness, &c., in conjunction with camping, athletics and hiking, the character of a boy is subconsciously developed.

The Boy Scouts of America will have 20 times 20 years of useful service. The organization is deserving of the enthusiastic support of all citizens.

AT HERCULANEUM

From the London Times.

The authorities in charge of the excavations at Herculaneum dislike publicity, and their chief aim is to keep away prying people until such time as the excavations are finished and given over to the public for free criticism.

The work was intended to be finished by April, 1930, but it is highly improbable that so large a task will be completed in the next four months. The new work at Herculaneum was begun in May, 1927, and the two-and-a-half years' work with new and more scientific methods has wrought wonders in bringing to light old Herculaneum. Although by modern contrivances much time is saved, modern ideas on excavation are far more exacting than those of other years.

Excavators today are not content with a show of one or two ruined walls, as were the older excavators at Pompeii; they try to present the ancient houses with their special architecture, their peculiar features and styles of decoration, and even their contents, as they were in the days when the town flourished. This new spirit is at work at Herculaneum. Objects dug up are not considered for their intrinsic value as "finds," but as contributing to the reconstruction of each house, so that ultimately the whole city may be recreated. The authorities are working for the scholar and the historian rather than for the romantic traveler.

The new excavations (scavi nuovi) at Pompeii were the first example of this new method, for the more recently excavated houses there have been left as they were revealed. Consequently they give a far more vivid picture of times past than do the older bare ruins stripped of their frescoes and mosaic pavements, which, according to the ideas of those days, were carried away to the Museum in Naples. The achievements at Pompeii have been far surpassed by the work at Herculaneum.

It is now possible to see at Herculaneum an antique house exactly as it stood centuries ago. Charred beams on which a balcony rested stick through a wall on to the street just as the modern iron beams of a house near by in the course of building stick out through the walls. The glass case which is put around the wooden ceiling beams or over each step of a carbonized wooden staircase does not hinder the recreating eye which can see the past vivid and palpable. "The centuries blend and blur," for there is an extraordinary likeness between the houses of southern Italy today and the dwellings of Herculaneum in its glory. There is the kitchen all complete with pans, a sanitary closet, a cross-bar window, and a little niche in the wall with an oil lamp. The only thing to show that it is not the house of a Neapolitan oil merchant of the last century is the image in a little shrine—a head of Bacchus.

The area where work is being done now is open ground sloping slightly toward sea level, and the latest houses to be laid bare lead one to suppose that this part of the old city was a less wealthy quarter of shore dwellers round a sloping road, very like the Via Marina at Pompeii. The center of the town is presumed to lie between this open space and the theater which was partly excavated by prisoners under King Charles III of Naples. In order to extend present excavation toward the theater it will be necessary to pull down part of the modern super-imposed town of Resina.

THE REDEEMING ACT.

His life was black as black could be,
No good of him was said,
Oft hunted by the law was he,
His hands with sin were red;
And those who sought him, smiled to see
His hateful body dead.

The robber's death he did not die,
No deadly pistol spoke.
He seemed too cunning and too sly
For hangman's noose to choke,
But he met death with a laughing eye
And faced it as a joke.

He cheated law, he cheated man
And God and Christ reviled,
And yet unto his death he ran
To save a little child,
And even as he felt the van
Crush out his life, he smiled.

The records show the man was base
And evil's ugly slave,
But still one mother went to place
A flower upon his grave,
And asked God's mercy and His grace
For him who once was brave.

The Buck's Proud Antlers Are Useless When Life Depends on Speed.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MANY of the modern world's troubles may be charged to the fact that people are ashamed of the wrong things and proud of the wrong things.

Prompted by nature to build self-respect as a defense and a weapon, they make an unwise choice of foundation material and in time of disaster find themselves unprotected.

The need of pride is obvious, but the worth of it depends wholly on the material of which it is made.

If a young man could choose but one foundation on which to base the decent self-respect essential to happiness and success, he might select strength, beauty, birth, wealth, fame or high place, but not one of these confers enduring honor and not one insures a self-respect that can survive all disaster.

Strength and beauty, the pride of the primitive, are as transient as youth and springtime, and are robbed of honor by the rogues and wantons who share them.

Birth confers honor if it inspires honor, but many of the high-born are knaves and imbeciles and the highest find their birthright useless when remorse takes away their self-respect.

Wealth is the common foundation of pride, but those who depend on it are utterly broken when it is gone, and at best it is neither sound nor respectable, for the feeble-minded inherit wealth and the dishonorable acquire it.

Reputation may seem a sufficient basis for self-respect, but fame is merely the good opinion of people who may change their opinion tomorrow, and it gives no assurance of honor, for rogues have won it unfairly.

There remains high place—the office that is a symbol of popularity and power—but this is least dependable of all, for an office can be no more honorable than the man who fills it, and there can be no honor in holding an office frequently held by fools and puppets.

The one dependable, ever-satisfying and enduring source of decent pride is that a man provides for himself—his character, his ability to do worthwhile things and his achievements.

Remorse will not shame him; his own kind will bring no reproach upon him; chance and ill fortune and the whim of the crowd are powerless to rob him of his own good opinion.

Suicides and whipped men are those whose source of pride could not survive adversity.

The man who may be down but never out is the man whose decent self-respect is the essence of qualities rooted in his soul.

IMA DODO SEES THE MARTIN JOHNSON AFRICAN MOVIE.

(The Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson African film now being shown about the country is preceded by a Grantland Rice illustrated talk on golf form and a picture demonstration of the Einstein theory.)

"Oh, it was just wonderful," declared Ima Dodo. "I was a little confused in spots, but I certainly was thrilled. Prof. Einstein certainly is a brave man to go right in among those lions and tigers the way he did and he certainly had a lotta close calls.

• • • •

"The picture opens with a demonstration on the speed of light or something by Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, and there are pictures to prove if you fire a pistol the flash travels faster than the bullet. It seems that Mr. Johnson is a noted German scientist whose theories have startled the world.

• • • •

"Then there is an illustrated talk on golf by the American Museum of Natural History, after which Prof. Einstein, the celebrated explorer, takes us into the faraway places of the world, risking his life and that of Mrs. Einstein among lions, tigers and savages of all kinds. Mrs. Einstein goes wherever the professor goes. He calls her Ossie and they are real outdoor pals.

• • • •

"I thought the most thrilling part of the whole thing was where the Einsteins plunge into the jungle of an island occupied by ferocious head-hunters whose leader is a chief called Relativity and whose people all worship the fourth dimension. Mr. and Mrs. Einstein are hunting elephants, but are not able to get any because they are lifting their heads on all the important shots. The head-hunters, aroused by a statement that light rays are bent, capture the Einsteins, and they are about to be executed when their plight is sensed by Grantland Rice, the governor general, who quits a Thompson gazelle hunt with Alex Morrison and rushes to the rescue. The way he saves them is wonderful. It's all a matter of rhythm and not getting the body through ahead of the club, he explains.

• • • •

"Then there are a lot of good lion-hunting scenes, which show the importance of a slow backswing, and you see Mrs. Martin Rice shoot Betelgeuse after she has been surrounded by a herd of Mashie Niblicks for twelve hours while the Einsteins are miles away dressing a white rhino by a system which only two men in the world can understand. It was all very amusing."

The first motion picture was projected on a screen 36 years ago. And if you ask us it probably was either a whippet race, a group of Dumb Doras exhibiting the new frocks or a parade in Rome.

A woman being sued by her attorney says she thought he was representing her for love. That's what may be called the height of optimism.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Gen. Braddock's Experience Cited as a Warning to Gen. Crosby in His Forthcoming Tussle With "Organized Crime."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Perhaps you remember that about the year 1755 England sent Gen. Braddock over to America to clean up the French and Indians. If I am not mistaken, the general was the guest of John Carlyle in the now famous Carlyle mansion in Alexandria. He there met a young Virginia planter who gave him expert advice on the special requirements of wilderness warfare. But he would have none of it. You know the result. In the campaign that followed, Braddock's army was annihilated—"left without a scalp to its crown."

In the appointment of Gen. Crosby as a Commissioner for the cleaning up of Washington I see a parallel. Gen. Crosby may be as fine a soldier as Gen. Braddock. In fact, having the benefit of modern training, he is likely enough a better one. As the head of the Third Calvary, in an inaugural parade or in a charge against the enemy he would do credit to himself and his country.

But it does not follow that in the civic field he will prove a remarkable campaigner. Whatever success he may have will result from the efforts of lieutenants selected on account of their familiarity with local conditions and skill in trailing the varmints that prey on civilized society. But if, like Braddock in the case of young George Washington, he allows the self-confidence of a life spent in the saddle to actuate his administration, neglectful of local opinion and helpful advice, the result may be confusion worse confounded.

C. P. ATKINS.

Veteran Testifies to the Thrill of the National Anthem at the Front.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Sunday I read a discourse on the "Star-Spangled Banner" by a Miss Kitty Cheatham, of New York, "composer of children's music," who attempted to show that it was "of barroom origin," while in today's Post there is a long clipping from the Boston Transcript, quoting William Fletcher Johnson. In his concluding paragraph he opines: "Obviously, Francis Scott Key was familiar with it, for as he watched the futile attack upon Fort McHenry he composed his own lyric in precisely the same meter, as if intended to be sung to that tune."

One must admit that the air of the national anthem is difficult, and, probably, "unsingable," but it has been my experience that it is not un-stir-able, as was witnessed behind the lines at Santiago de Cuba, at high noon on July 4, 1898, after the various regimental adjutants had read the message of President McKinley, expressing the thanks of the Nation, for the success of the Fifth Army Corps on its attack on San Juan Hill. At the conclusion of the message, the regimental bands struck up the "Star-Spangled Banner." It had the effect of making old warriors, some veterans of the Civil War some of Indian campaigns, and others of both, break down and weep like babies. They had witnessed other scenes of carnage where comrades had fallen by their sides, and they never stopped to question the "origin" of the "Star-Spangled banner."

I would advise some of the critics of the national anthem to go to some of our national cemeteries and read the inscriptions on the tombstones, as well as to read American history since 1812, if they wish to be assured that the national anthem has, if of "barroom origin," taken the Keely cure and grown up to be quite a somebody. It may also be advisable to remind them, that when preferring anything else to the "Star-Spangled Banner" their national ratio is as 120,000,000 is to 1.

And the home of the brave.
(Even yet some people dare to sleep in their own home! And some venturesome school boys still persist in driving automobiles.)
Then conquer we must
(Though our cause is unjust.)
And this is our watchward,
"In shotguns we trust!"

Some other seldom sung and little known passages of the proposed national anthem are said to be almost venomous enough, if a first class "hymn of hate" is desired, without change from the original.

In view of the present alarming manifestations of good will throughout the world between nations, finding expression in attempted agreements tending to reduce the likelihood of war and to lighten the burden of peoples, this is considered a peculiarly desirable time to offer insult to friendly nations by official adoption of this particular song as a national anthem.

Federal Employes to Take Dry Oath Before Drawing Pay—Now Let Every One Receiving Treasury Note Take Similar Oath.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Representative Stone, of Oklahoma, has introduced a bill in the House to compel all employes and others who receive any money from the United States Treasury to take an oath not to drink any liquor or use narcotics. Now, isn't that simple? Higher-ups in the Government have been worried with the prohibition question for ten years, and Mr. Stone shows them how easy it is to enforce the eighteenth amendment.

The bill introduced by Mr. Stone would have a joker added to it in the form of requiring all who receive Treasury notes, Federal Reserve notes or other national currency to take the oath, too. As every one receives currency some time or other, this would prove a quick method of drying up the country.

BARLOW WILL FIGHT CLAIM ARBITRATION

American Litigant to Refuse Cuban Offer to Discuss $9,000,000 Action.

U. S. ENVOY FAVORS PLAN

(Associated Press.)

Joseph E. Barlow, American citizen who claims property in the heart of Havana valued at $9,000,000 on the basis of an old Spanish land grant, said last night he would never consent to arbitration of his claim.

Prior to Mr. Barlow's statement, Ambassador Ferrara, of Cuba, had revealed the willingness of the Cuban government to permit American and Cuban claimants to submit their differences to arbitration. Mr. Barlow contends the courts have upheld his contention but that the Cuban government has refused to recognize it.

"My claim never will be established by arbitration with my consent," he asserted. "I have a supreme court verdict which gives me a clear title to that property. All I want is execution of that court decision."

Case Long Discussed.

Mr. Barlow's claims have long been the subject of discussions between the two governments. Both former Secretary of State Kellogg and Secretary Stimson have inquired into his contentions, and recently the Senate foreign relations committee conducted its own inquiry at the instance of Senator Borah.

Havana, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—A report at the presidential palace today indicated that Cuba is now willing to arbitrate the $9,000,000 claim filed against the Cuban government by Joseph E. Barlow, American resident of Havana.

Mr. Barlow asks the sum as compensation for real estate in Havana which he charges was confiscated by persons closely connected with the Cuban government. The claim has been pending before the American State Department for the past ten years. Mr. Barlow now is in Washington.

Arbitration Is Decided.

A meeting was held at the palace this morning between President Machado, American Ambassador Guggenheim and Jose Gomez Mena, who disputes Mr. Barlow's right to a valuable piece of land involved in the claims.

They are said to have agreed that the claims should be placed before an arbitration board, whose members were to be chosen by the Cuban and the American governments.

Ambassador Guggenheim for some time has been trying to reach an agreement with the Cuban government on the method for investigating the Barlow claims.

Confiscation Is Alleged.

In his formal complaints Mr. Barlow charges that the Manglar property, of Havana, to which he claims legal deeds and court orders for his repossession, was forcibly confiscated. He further asserts that it is being exploited by President Machado and a brother-in-law. He values it at $5,000,000. The property, which is an old Spanish grant, is located in the heart of Havana.

A second claim for $500,000 is asked for alleged fencing of the Buena Vista property, which Mr. Barlow claims is his property, but which he alleges was seized by government officials in order "to embarrass him."

Other claims involving billboard concessions, water mains dispute, a diamond brooch theft and exemplary damages, are contained in the main case.

They Call It Politics

By CARTER FIELD

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Feb. 9.—Herbert Hoover is the paramount issue, temporarily at least, in a wet and dry battle waged by the feminine armies. Women's Law Enforcement Leagues are springing up everywhere, while for the first time in the history of the State women are taking an active part on the wet side too.

Even to attempt to repeal State enforcement is a blow at the President, the dry women assert, and there seems little doubt that this is one of the most forceful arguments, for although Herbert Hoover is not of that knightly order of the "Native Sons," and is far from being the descendant of a Forty-Niner, having been born in Iowa, there is no gainsaying the hold he has on this State.

Incidentally the Native Sons and the Descendants of Forty-Niners were swamped, numerically, by more recent immigration about the time that Los Angeles began its amazing growth, and it so happens that Iowa contributed way out of its proportion to this growth. So that in having moved from Iowa to California Mr. Hoover is one of a tremendous percentage of this State.

* * * *

The wet women leaders acknowledge not only privately but openly that this cry of the drys to rally round the President is the most difficult point they have to meet. They claim to have surmounted successfully the contention of the drys that the only alternative to present conditions is the return of the saloon. No move on the wet side will be made, they say, that does not provide rigorously against saloons ever being licensed again in this State, even if the eighteenth amendment should be repealed.

Just at present the ladies on the wet side are giving all the circulation they can to one clause from Mr. Hoover's first message to the regular session of Congress, last December. In this he said, speaking of opponents of prohibition, "theirs the right to work for repeal."

* * * *

COUNTERING this the drys insist that this meant only that any one opposed to the prohibition law had a right to work for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. It does not mean nullification by having individual States refuse to do their part in enforcing the law. And they lay great stress on the President's appeal for cooperation by the States, and his rather clearly indicated desire to have the States take over all local enforcement, leaving to the Federal Government the guarding of the coasts, interstate movements, industrial alcohol diversions, &c. San Francisco, of course, is and always has been the chief center of wet strength in the State. Wet leaders talk with enthusiasm about their prospects until some one mentions Southern California. That generally modifies their optimism most perceptibly.

The one big possibility of this State going wet this fall, ladies working for that objective told the writer, was that in the referendum four years ago most of the women in the wet sections of the State did not vote.

* * * *

"THE great majority of women to whom I have talked, and who have promised me to register and vote wet this year," said Mrs. John B. Casserly, who is leading the fight against the Wright State enforcement act, "tell me that they did not even register four years ago. Many of them have never voted at all."

The wets believe that the drys were able to poll their women last time much more successfully. But the dry women leaders are working just as hard, and are claiming that if the wets dare to force a referendum—despite all the hubbub there is no definite decision on this—the dry majority will astonish the country and "uphold the hands of the President."

Incidentally the ladies leading the drys are making much of the fact that many of the women prominent on the wet side are Democrats and that Mrs. Casserly actually ran for the House of Representatives last time on the Democratic ticket.

* * * *

DESPITE memories of 1916, when California gave some 3,000 majority to Woodrow Wilson, this is a very heavily Republican State. It believes in high protection and high wages, and with each tariff fight discovers new products which it claims would suffer from foreign competition unless given high duties.

The very wetness of San Francisco at the present moment is a handicap to the wet leaders in a way, because a great many very sincere drinkers are absolutely apathetic about changing the law. They regard it as futile so far as the country is concerned, and unnecessary so far as San Francisco is concerned.

YOUR INCOME TAX

NO. 8.

With a certain proviso, compensation paid by a State or "political subdivision thereof," such as a county or city, to its officers and employes is not taxable income. The proviso is that the wages of such officers and employes must be rendered in connection with the "essential governmental functions of the State or political subdivision" as distinguished from its proprietary functions. The salaries of the governor of a State, mayor of a city, councilman, board of aldermen, public school teachers and policemen and firemen are not taxable. But the compensation received by employes of water works owned and operated by a municipality, or of a municipally owned and operated street railway, is taxable, for the reason that they are engaged in activities which are not governmental.

Fees for special services to a State are taxable, as, for example, compensation paid architects and builders for planning and erecting a State capitol or other State or municipal building. An officer or employe of a State, for the purpose of the income tax law, is one whose services are continuous and not occasional or temporary.

TWO DIE, NINE HURT IN BRAZIL OUTBREAK

Second Clash Occurs Where Five Persons Were Slain Last Friday.

INQUIRY BEING IMPEDED

Rio Janeiro, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Antonio Carlos, president of the state of Minas Geraes, today telegraphed President Washington Luis saying he had been unable to obtain full data on the disorders at Montes Claros last Friday, in which five persons were killed and fifteen others, including the vice president of Brazil, were wounded.

Simultaneously a telegram was received from Bautista Luzardo, chief of the propaganda delegation of the Liberal party, saying there had been a second clash at Montes Claros, with two killed and nine wounded.

Senor Carlos said his investigation had been hampered by refusal of federal officials in charge of the railways and telegraph to cooperate. He said they had declined to transmit messages carrying news of the disorders for State officials, and had refused to transport state investigators.

The Brazilian vice president, Mello Vianna, was shot in the neck and head, but was reported out of danger yesterday. Some reports of the riots said the fight started after a violent political argument at a banquet.

Tri-State River Conference Fails

Arizona and California Commissioners Unable to Agree.

Phoenix, Ariz., Feb. 9 (A.P.).—The tri-State Colorado River conference, which convened here last Thursday, ended today in at least temporary failure.

W. J. Donovan, chairman and personal representative of President Hoover, announced Arizona and California commissioners were unable to agree upon interpretations of a clause in the Boulder dam act defining the manner in which the power question should be determined. The parley was recessed subject to the call of the chairman who left by airplane for the East and said he would submit a full report of the proceedings to Secretary of Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur.

Arizona's viewpoint was supported by New Mexico, Utah, Colorado and Nevada.

Before the close of the meeting, however, representatives of the upper basin States expressed satisfaction with the progress made and expressed hopes that Arizona and California ultimately would reach agreement.

CROWD RUNS AMUCK AT BAD RACE START

French Race Throng Wrecks Pari-Mutuels Barracks and Grand Stand.

ALL MONEY IS REFUNDED

Vincennes, France, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Enraged because five horses were left at the post in the first trotting race on the program here today, an immense crowd burned the pari-mutuels barracks, wrecked the grand stands, raided the bars, and continued rioting until assured that entrance money and all bets would be refunded. Many were injured.

Firemen succeeded in saving the grandstands, but all the pari-mutuel booths and the paddock were destroyed by fire. Police were unable to restore order until Prefect Chiappe took personal charge. Chiappe ordered the backers of the races to announce that the money would be refunded. The mob then quieted and began lining up at the various gates to get their money back.

The extent of the damage was undetermined tonight. The weighing scales room was wrecked, however, two bars were raided and the contents either stolen or broken, in addition to the buildings burned.

Ten jockeys were fined varying amounts from $20 to $50 for "beating the flag" and refusing to return at the call of the starter. There were 15 horses in the race, five of the drivers being left behind when the other ten started.

Inmates of Texas Jail Riot, Defying Officers

Galveston, Tex., Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Prisoners in the main cell block on the fourth floor of Galveston County Jail rioted yesterday, burning mattresses and other combustibles and defying jailers and deputy sheriffs. One prisoner was cut by another inmate.

Mattresses were set ablaze early in the day. Sheriff R. E. Kirk and his deputies quenched the fire but were unable to quiet the inmates of the "iron house," where felony prisoners are confined. The situation went out of hand again shortly after noon. Order later was restored but prisoners were sullen and refused food. Forty windows were broken and floors were flooded during the riots.

BROOKHART URGES COOPERATIVE BANKS

Senator, at Labor Meeting, Also Attacks "Government by Injunction."

REDEPOSITS ARE SCORED

Philadelphia, Feb 9 (A.P.).—Senator Smith D. Brookhart, of Iowa, told a labor mass meeting today that the "stock gambling crowd of Wall street" had nullified the Federal reserve law through the system of redeposits. He urged the establishment of cooperative banks by a farm-labor coalition, and declared he was opposed to "government by injunction."

More than 4,000 persons attended the meeting, which was called to protest against court injunctions issued in Philadelphia and Northampton Counties against hosiery strikers who have been engaged in picketing. Resolutions were adopted calling for the defeat at the polls of United States Senator Joseph R. Grundy, of Pennsylvania; advocating State and national legislation to limit the power of courts in issuing injunctions in labor disputes, and pledging support for a progressive league labor party.

"The stock gambling crowd of Wall street," Senator Brookhart asserted, "have nullified the Federal reserve law through the system of redeposits. Capital through investment in chain stores, chain banks and chain industries is destroying the farmer, the small merchant and labor. The deposits of the farmer and the workman have been turned over to gamblers.

"The United States ought to be the most prosperous land in the world. Why do we not have it? Simply because under our present system great interests are taking money out of the pockets of the producers and putting it in their own.

"To stop stock gambling we must adopt a 5 per cent sales tax on all stocks resold within 60 days. To save the small manufacturer and the small business man we must adopt the cooperative system."

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

"Across the World With Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson," their first talking picture, proved rather a surprise last night in the National Theater for at least several professional theatergoers who had planned for an early departure. They went, some of them, to see only the first part of the picture—contrasting scenes of yesterday and today. They remained to see the entire production, one of the most interesting that has been unraveled in local theaterdom these many moons.

What has happened in this old world of ours since the dawn of the new century and before is admirably set forth in a series of photographs showing, for instance, the styles of three decades ago, the first of the airplane flights, the inauguration of President McKinley, World War shots, and a number of other interesting events. It really makes a study in the progress of the motion picture as well—the faulty flickering of the first films contrasted with the admirable projection of the moment.

Then, that trip into the African jungle, and into the villages inhabited by head-hunters—with all sorts of beasts and wild animals photographed in action. Those who prefer to do their traveling in this manner, by witnessing the scenes shown on a screen, have here the finest exhibition of the year.

* * * *

The day at the National, yesterday, was given over entirely to travel. Mr. E. M. Newman, the well-known travel talker, occupied the stage at the matinee performance. The Rhine River, beloved for its scenic wonders, was the subject of his travelogue.

Germany's greatest port, Hamburg, was the starting point. Mr. Newman was fortunate in obtaining some exceptional camera studies of this famous city, in spite of the fact that bad weather dogged his trail during his stay there. A grand tour of the harbor, one of the finest in the world, with separate slips for ships of every nation, was graphically depicted on the screen. Included in the picture were interior shots of the S. S. Bremen, Hamburg-American liner, which recently broke the world's record in crossing the Atlantic. A view of the Europa, sister ship of the Bremen, now under construction, also was shown.

Exceptional still pictures, colored by master craftsmen, were shown along with moving pictures of the valley of the Rhine. Mr. Newman's traveltalk included many of the better known cities, and some of the famous watering places of Germany. Frankfort-on-the-Main, Bremen, Lubeck, and Weisbaden were among those seen on the screen. Hamburg's world-renowned Zoological Garden was shown in detail. Mr. Newman also exhibited homes of such famous Germans as Beethoven, Goethe and Lessing. Many camera studies of the quaint architecture of antiquity were of exceptional interest. Among those shown were the houses erected by the Butcher's Guild, and the oldest house in Germany.

Emma Otero, the brilliant and fascinating young Cuban coloratura, whose debut at Carnegie Hall several months ago was one of the most highly anticipated musical events of the current season, is announced as the concert attraction at Poli's Theater tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. This is the third attraction of Mrs. Wilson-Greene's Philharmonic course of concerts at that theater.

Otero is the protege of President Machado of Cuba. The marvelous vocal powers of this tropical beauty were discovered by Beniamino Gigli, Metropolitan Opera Company tenor, who, incidentally, will appear here in concert later this month. A feature of the outstanding interest in connection with Otero's concert is the fact that Frank LaForge, eminent American pianist and composer, will appear as her accompanist. One of Otero's songs will be LaForge's "Pastorale," which he has dedicated to the singer.

* * * *

Rosa Ponselle, the great prima donna soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, will make her only concert appearance in Washington this season at Poli's Theater one week from this coming Wednesday, on Wednesday afternoon, February 19, at 4:30 o'clock, as the fourth attraction of Mrs. Wilson-Greene's Philharmonic course of afternoon concerts at that theater.

Despite the recent erroneous announcemetn from her office giving a different date for Ponselle's concert, Mrs. Wilson-Greene states that no change of any kind has been made in the arrangement for this singer's appearance in Washington. Ponselle will be assisted by Stuart Ross at the piano.

GAYETY

One of these burlesque shows that send the patrons away smiling is on deck at the Gayety this week. "Frivolities" has as featured woman an entertainer known as "Adeline." Frank Harcourt, Adeline Parks, Ethel Albertini, James Hall, Johnny Cook and Irma Raystone are also in the cast.

Bright spark of the production is the work of a little red-head, Adeline Parks. She appears in a number of scenes, and goes over big.

Another big week, with two special nights, Wednesday, auction night, amateur night, Friday.

Manager Lake announces that the Dream Girl of Burlesque, "Hindu Wassau," will make her debut here next week.

PEGGING OF WHEAT EXPECTED AT ONCE

Creation of Stabilization Corporation by Farm Board Predicted.

EMERGENCY POINTED OUT

Pegging of wheat prices by the United States Government through large-scale buying at fixed prices is expected to be authorized this week by the Federal Farm Board. That body, according to excellent authority, will approve the suggestion of the wheat advisory commodity committee of Chicago for the creation of a stabilization corporation which will do the necessary buying. It will be the first such stabilization corporation since the farm relief act was enacted.

The wheat market is now in a critical condition, and the business of the stabilization corporation would be to buy and sell wheat. The law provides that such a body be established when the commodity under consideration sells below the loan value. It must be farmer-owned and farmer-controlled. Through Government loans, which the Federal Farm Board is empowered to make, it can take off of the market surplus and hold it until conditions improve. This can not be done by the National Grain Corporation, which, members of the board explain, is a merchandising organization.

Wheat suffered from the collapse of the stock market last fall. There has been complaint from grain centers about the competition of the American wheat grower with his neighbor in Canada. A recent report from the Department of Commerce said that the visible supply of wheat in the United States and Canada at the end of November was substantially greater than a year ago. Wheat receipts and shipments at principal markets were smaller than a year ago.

Grain brokers in Minneapolis, Duluth, Kansas City and other places are peeved over the plans of the Federal Farm Board to aid the grower, but it was said here yesterday that the disgruntled ones represent a small per cent of the total in the business.

Musician Due Tomorrow To Direct Choral Songs

Frederick Alexander, head of the music department of Ypsilanti Normal College, is due to arrive here tomorrow to direct the first rehearsal of the new Washington Festival Chorus which is to be organized at Thomson Community Center tomorrow evening at 7:45 o'clock.

Under the direction of Prof. Alexander, who is recognized throughout the United States as an authority on choral music, the chorus plans to give its first recital at the Belasco Theater on May 7, during National Music Week. Mrs. Joseph M. Stoddard and Miss Grace Dunham Guest, vice presidents of the newly organized association for better choral music in Washington, will have charge of registrations for membership in the chorus.

The green crepe appears again in the rever of Vionnet neckline and in the bow tie. The black neckline has sunburst tucks which tend to break the width through the shoulders.

To make it! Merely side and shoulder seams to join! Stitch circular tiers along perforated lines. To form the revers it is cut from neckline of center-front and underfaced and rolled.

WIFE DENIES KILLING MATE WITH POISON

20-Hour Quiz Fails to Shake Declaration of Innocence in Arkansas Death.

ADMITS BUYING POTION

El Dorado, kAr., Feb. 9 (A.P.).—After twenty hours of continuous questioning by county officers, Mrs James F. Gentry, 36, tonight steadfastly maintained she was innocent of causing the death of her husband, who, officers charge, was poisoned last week in a plot to collect insurance on his life. Mr. Gentry's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Luke Pridgeon, also were being held in jail as accessories to first degree murder. The trio, prominent in Union County, were arrested yesterday after State Chemist Mangelsdorf reported traces of poison had been found in Gentry's viscera and brain.

Prosecuting Attorney Joe Joyner said Mrs. Gentry admitted buying a quantity of poison shortly before her husband's death, but denied she administered it to him. She also admitted, Joyner said, that her husband seemed in intense pain when he died. Gentry died January 29 at the home of his wife's parents, at Strong, near here. Officers said they learned he left his home in El Dorado the night before his death, apparently in good health. Before departing with his wife for her parents' home, officers said he secured a prescription containing only a mild drug to break up a slight cold. Neighbors told police he began the prescribed treatment early on the morning of his death. After taking three capsules, he became convulsed with pain, they said. Officers were told he died shortly after he he was placed in bed.

The investigation was begun when the neighbors reported circumstances surrounding the death to the prosecuting attorney. The body was exhumed February 1, and the vital organs taken to State Chemist Mangelsdorf.

Officers said they learned Gentry carried a large amount of insurance at the time of his death, all made payable to his wife, to whom he had been married two years.

Theft Is Revealed By Spending Orgy

Three Small Boys Set Fast Pace With Grocery Store Funds.

Three small boys, ranging in age from 10 to 12 years, indulged in an orgy of spending Saturday afternoon. It was just such an orgy as would delight the heart of any normal kid. Candy, movies, sodas and the like were disposed of in wholesale quantities until the point of saturation had been reached. Then, as the movies say, "Came the dawn."

A big policeman grew curious. He asked embarrassing questions and childish lips began to quiver. Fear of the law, aided in this instance by an extremely guilty conscience, easily provoked a confession.

One of the boys, police say, happened to see Abraham Updike, manager of the Sanitary Grocey Co. store at Eleventh and M streets northwest, secret $137 under a cake box in the store. When the manager turned his back, the youngster took the money and, with true comradeship, divided it amongst his companions.

One boy got $35, another $15 and so it went. Then began that orgy of spending. When police captured them, $10 had been dissipated. All the rest was recovered and because of the youth of the boys they were turned over to their parents.

On the Rules of Traffic

By WILLIAM ULLMAN

Driving a light delivery truck at 22 miles an hour may seem to be heroic observance of the regulations to the man at the wheel, but if he feels that way he is woefully ignorant of the speed limit for that type of vehicle.

The District traffic code imposes a limit of 18 miles an hour for the commercial vehicle equipped with pneumatic tires. Those with solid tires may not go faster than 15 miles an hour.

Example: A driver of a light delivery truck is arrested for speeding. His excuse is that he was in a 30-mile zone and he was doing only 25 miles an hour. This would be permissible for the driver of a passenger car, but the truck driver has violated the regulations.

Portuguese Drive Out Spanish Fishing Boats

Lisbon, Portugal, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Portuguese patrol boats today surprised and drove off twenty Spanish fishing smacks encroaching on Portuguese territorial waters off Buancos.

Officials charged that the fishermen were setting off dynamite in the water to stun the fish.

Row Over Dog Tail Costs Girl's Life

Western Barber Is Charged With Shooting Phone Operator.

Mount Vernon, Wash., Feb. 9 (A.P.) An argument over the twist in a bulldog's tail, here today resulted in the fatal shooting of Miss Dorothy McMurtrie, 24, Bellingham telephone operator, and the critical wounding of her brother, Harold.

J. P. Pickett, Anacortes, Wash., barber and part Cherokee Indian, who, witnesses said, did the shooting, was arrested after he had taken the girl to a hospital in his car.

The argument took place during an alleged beer drinking party at the home of Mr and Mrs. Roy Nortin, near Anacortes. Mrs. Nortin, the witnesses said, was knitting a blanket for one of her two bulldogs. An argument over a slight twist in the tail of one dog followed and Miss McMurtrie and Pickett's wife took opposite sides. Harold McMurtrie and Pickett quarreled.

Witnesses told officers that Pickett rushed to his car and returned with a .32-caliber pistol, firing on the McMurtries as he entered the door. Two bullets lodged in Miss McMurtries' abdomen, and her brother was hit four times.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

MILITARY methods in radio control loom with the possibility of Gen. Charles McK. Saltzman, U. S. A., retired, becoming chairman of the Federal Radio Commission. Gen. Saltzman, now a member of the commission, was appointed by President Hoover and is a personal friend of the President.

The fear is expressed that if Gen. Saltzman assumes command he may rule with an iron hand. His first move after becoming commissioner was to try to estaolish a censorship by barring newspapermen from the engineering division where the precious wave lengths are doled out.

Later Commissioner Bill Starbuck, following the general's lead, attempted to ram through a ukase by which any employe seen talking to a press representative would be discharged.

Fred East will sing his famous "Rolling to the Sea," never before heard on the radio, over Station WOL at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening.

THE owners of WMBG, Richmond, Va., have filed an appeal in the District Court from the Radio Commission decision denying the Richmond station permission to take over the frequency now used by the pro-Klan Station WJSV, at Mount Vernon Hills, Va.

This follows the commission sidestepping the contention made by WMBG that WJSV should be charged to the District of Columbia because it maintains a studio in the Capital and most of its programs originate here.

If the Radio Commission railroaded Thad Brown, Mr. Hoover's pre-convention manager in Ohio, through as general counsel because they thought the White House was behind him it was only history repeating itself.

When Frank H. Lovette, of Elizabethton, Tenn., credited with staging Mr. Hoover's only campaign speech in the South, was proposed for assistant secretary the commission not only turned a somersault to do what it understood to be the administration's bidding but actually threw a man out of his job to make a place for Lovette.

THE best women speakers on the air recently have not been, in our opinion, congresswomen or others who make speaking more or less a business, but Annette Kellermann, the swimmer; Ruth St. Denis, the dancer, and last week Fannie Hurst, the novelist.

The eloquent conclusion of the Right Hon. Philip Snowden's address across the Atlantic yesterday afternoon could easily have been mistaken for an utterance of a great preacher rather than that of a supposedly cold financier.

Applicant—Well, here I am to see about that radio job you advertised.

Station manager—Do you think you can do the work?

Applicant—Work? I thought you wanted an announcer.

Paris, Feb. 9.

"I'VE been traveling, you know!" Oh, yes, yes, every one used to say yes, they knew, &c., &c., &c.

But in their heart of hearts they did not forgive, even though they insisted that they did.

No one has ever been able to or ever will be able to forgive a lovely lady for abusing her loveliness, and then asking pardon for it on this or that or the other grounds.

There just are no grounds, no excuses. Loveliness owes something to the world, and the world can not forgive her for neglecting this debt.

• • • •

If you travel at all in your line of business, you must equip yourself for traveling. There isn't anything in the travel line for the lady elegante that she can not buy today. But she must buy wisely, with an eye to absolute economy in space—some of the "gadgets" offered to the inexperienced traveler in the guise of traveling comforts are too stupid for words.

For instance, the dressing case, completely equipped with brush, comb, mirror and everything under the well-known sun, is a snare and a delusion to the woman who knows anything at all about travel. But a case, which takes the same amount of space and contains a comb and brush and smaller mirror, just the necessary manicure things, and the certain beauty preparations that are indispensable, that is a real economy.

What's the one thing that your spring ensemble needs to make it smart and eye-attracting? In case it is, we've thought of some cute tricks for incrustation on your blouse or jacket—or both, and now we are waiting anxiously to see if you send your stamped self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post to put an end to what we started but can't finish without your help. But if you could see the ideas right this minute you'd do it. Sweaters, blouses, jacquettes . . .!

• • • •

To tell you the honest truth, we are greatly afraid we sketched this suit for you before—with the jacket, you see. But it just looked so darn good with the skirt and the broadcloth blouse that we decided to draw it for you without the jacket. And here it is!

Two or three-piece spring ensembles, fur-trimmed and even occasionally fur-lined, are being made by Paris couturiers. These ensembles are really for the present Riviera season, not to mention Palm Beach—because contrary to the general hopes and expectations of the uninitiated, there are cool days in the South quite up until July.

Although fur-trimmed, these ensembles are usually in pastel shades or mixed materials, but the mixtures themselves are a lighter color.

Au Revoir!

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

The Inarticulate Husband.

CLARE wants a divorce and she feels that after that happiness, youth and joy of living will return. I wonder! I wonder whether Clare will find in freedom such undiluted joy, or whether when she is settled in "a place all her own" she will begin, for the first time, to think.

Read Clare's letter. Do you believe divorce is what Clare needs? Or does she need a little old-fashioned advice, a little help in understanding her own heart needs and the needs of the man, however imperfect, who shares her life?

Dear Miss McDonald:

I have been married ten years and have one of those husbands who think it silly to make love. He was no wonder lover even before marriage, but now he just acts as if any mention of love was irritating to him. As far as finances and such matters are concerned he is very generous, in fact, gives me more of his earnings than I feel is right. But I save all I can, putting this money in an account of which he knows nothing.

We had one child and lost him four years ago. For a while after that sorrow he was very affectionate, but I realize now that was merely to help me bear up. Now he is back to his casual attitude. A hurried kiss in the morning, gone all day, a kiss in the evening, the radio, the newspaper. He hasn't held me in his arms in over two years. I want a divorce and a chance to either live by myself in a little place all my own, or else find another husband who will care a little about me, or at least have the decency to pretend that he does.

I have given ten years of my youth to him and all of my love. Would I be justified in taking this money that he does not even know I have saved and using it to finance myself somewhere while adjusting myself to a new life? It is over $1,200 and I feel since it is all I have for my ten years of love I would be doing no wrong in just taking it to help repair my life.

CLARE.

There you have it, Clare, lonely for the love of her husband, hurt by what seems to be his coldness, believing utterly that separation from him will bring her happiness. Poor Clare, how little she realizes what ten years of even an unspoken love can do to a woman! Suppose he does come home at night with only a sort of routine kiss.

After all, the point is that he does come home, that his home and his wife are his world, and his life. To him money is just something to give to Clare. To him love is a bond that strengthens through the years. To him even a doubt of his love for Clare could never cross his mind. She is just part of his being, and very little would he care how much of his money Clare might take with her when she left him. All that would matter would be the cruel realization that she could leave him, that the years of his devotion, however silent, could have been to her so meaningless.

But those years have not been meaningless and Clare would find that out within a week. Clare says that the little hoard of gold is all that she has for ten years of love, Ah, Clare, ten yars of loving even without being loved leaves a woman richer in womanhood a thousandfold, and when those years have brought to her wrapt devotion and a child, and sorrow and the comfort in that sorrow that only love can give, then indeed a woman has gained what gold can never buy.

The spirit is a sensitive thing, strangely susceptible, sustained or undermined by contacts and impressions. The spirit of a woman sheltered in a good man's love for ten years is quite different from that woman's spirit before such an experience. So, leaving her husband Clare will take much more precious treasure than the little hoard that represents his thought of her. Her ten years have left her much more lasting gain. And best of all, they have given her a deeper tenderness, a sense of another's need, and it is this that will send Clare back to her husband if she does leave him. For that reason Clare should go away for a week's visit, preferably to some married friend whose husband is out four nights a week. Husbands miss much joy in failing to make love to their wives, but a wife usually knows when she is loved and knowing should be glad that love is hers.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"AQUARIUS."

IF February 10th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m. The danger periods are from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m., and from 9:30 p. m. to 10:40 p. m.

The astrological forecast for this date is not very bright—few prearranged plans will be carried out and unforeseen complications will cause delays. Individual effort will be a weak fighter against the hands of Fate. Unexpected family difficulties may crop up.

The child born on this February 10 will be talkative and opinionated, but will be interesting and self-reliant. It will be long in "push" but rather short in patience and tact. It will be very warm-hearted and affectionate.

You have considerable self-assurance, although you could never be called a braggart. You know how to advertise, very prettily and effectively, your graces and talents—you make people believe in you and like you. As a keen student of human nature, you are able, in a pinch, to bluff your way through to success, without revealing any weaknesses. In some respects you are always an actor—the world is your stage, and everybody is your audience. Your every act and every word is done or spoken to create a definite impression. Your life is not lived at random—there is a motive behind everything you do.

You are extravagantly ambitious—position and appearances mean a great deal to one of your nature. You are satisfied with only the best of everything. You are not, however, a bargain hunter—you are willing to pay full price for value received. Your pride often swells to the point of vanity, although you are quite unconscious of the fact.

Outwardly you are very democratic, but at heart you are an intellectual and social snob. A great many people bore you, but your likes and dislikes are too cleverly concealed to reveal your irritation. You do not wish to hurt any one's feelings unnecessarily. An eventful life is pictured for you.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

GAINS OF THE FEMALES.

"OLD LOUISIANA" is an interesting story of the life of the early citizens of that State, with special attention to the social life, between 1830 and 1860, their heyday. It is written by Lyle Saxon. The author knows his theme by reason of residence, inheritance, and the spirit of his soul. His book is replete with secondary source material.

Some 60-odd pages are devoted to the diary of an inconsequential young man. The diary is as inconsequential as is its author, but it is valuable in that it holds a mirror to the doings of the day. The images tell us of the life and thought of the men and women of the period unvexed by distortions due to the mirror. In one place he describes the screams and fainting fits indulged in by ladies during a severe thunderstorm. "The young ladies proved themselves typical of their generation by swooning time after time. It seems to be the fashion to faint during thunderstorms." "Aunt Theophile was very much frightened by the noise of the thunder and got into bed."

Illustrating, first, the tendency to hide one's head as a means of escaping danger, and, second, hysterical overtones, the diary gives a story of the reaction of a middle-aged widow to the death of her son. The lady had buried more than a fair allotment of husbands and relatives and, therefore, should have accumulated some stamina, even though she began with none. When her son died in another part of the State the family kept her in ignorance of the fact, that she might enjoy a week of gayety and also because they feared the consequences of her grief. "After a week the painful tale was told my aunt, who immediately fainted, and during the day had many fits which followed each other in rapid succession. During the next week she went from collapse to collapse." This was in 1852.

Some who wrote of Abraham Lincoln's family life in the White House used almost the same words in describing Mrs. Lincoln's behavior following the death of Willie in 1862. Some who study Mrs. Lincoln's personality in the light of today regard the period of hysteria following the death of Willie as suggestive of what was to follow. It loses much of its meaning when it is seen to be nearly typical of the emotional reaction to great grief on the part of women of the period.

Women of the present day do not indulge in swooning. They do not get ill bed when it thunders. Fainting is not a fashionable pastime. This is true of the ladies of the social strata, which corresponded to that dealt with in this diary. The last 80 years have witnessed a wonderful gain for and by women. They are better specimens mentally, physically, and emotionally. The male has not improved as much.

CABBAGE COOKED TOO LONG.

H. C. writes:

1. Is cabbage that has been cooked an hour or more in meats a suitable dish for children?

2. My little girl, 5 years old, has had a peculiar tongue for over a year. White rings start at the tip of the tongue and become wider, and, finally, disappear at the back of the tongue. What can I do to cure this?

REPLY.

1. Cabbage that has been cooked too long becomes indigestible, turns dark, and acquires a rank taste and odor. Young children should not eat it. This change is due to sulphur, which has been liberated by too much cooking.

2. Why do anything?

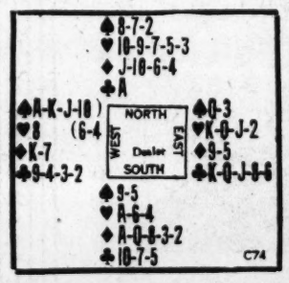
WORK'S BRIDGE

(This article is intended for the Bridge novice.)

THE clever Declarer gains more tricks by obtaining ruffs with the trumps held by his dummy than is ordinarily imagined, consequently the player who is manipulating the twenty-six cards never exhausts trumps until he is sure that he can not utilize any in his short hand for ruffing purposes.

The adversaries, too, get in their ruffs at times before the Declarer has a chance to draw the trumps. It is with the hope of doing this that singletons are led, and sometimes ruffs are obtained by less simple means. Take, for example, the following hand:



South would start by bidding one Diamond and West would obtain the contract with Spades the trump.

North, instead of leading his partner's suit to the first trick, should first lead his singleton Ace of Clubs and then a Diamond. Such a play means that the Ace was a singleton; and South, winning the second trick with the Diamond Ace, would lead a Club which North would ruff. North would not now continue the Diamonds because he would know that his partner having won with the Ace could not have the King. He would know furthermore that his partner, having bid a suit headed by Ace-Queen, must have some side strength, and the only side strength he could have would be the Ace of Hearts.

So to trick 4 North would lead a Heart which South would win with the Ace, and lead a third Club to permit North to ruff a second time. In that way the adversaries would take five tricks before the Declarer had a chance to get started.

SPOTTY CONDITIONS SEEN FOR BUSINESS

Spring Expansion Should Soon Aid Wholesale and Retail Trade.

COTTON FUTURES DROP

New York, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Several important lines of industry continued to gain ground during the last week, but the recovery was irregular, and on the whole, conditions remained spotty, although such a phase is regarded as normal during a period of business recuperation.

Mercantile reports indicated continued faltering in wholesale and retail trade, probably reflecting in a measure severe weather over large areas. This is the season when slack trade is to be expected, although the spring expansion should not be many weeks off. Standard Statistics Co., in its monthly sales survey, stated that a decline during February and March of about 5 per cent from the like period of 1929 is indicated.

Among the more encouraging developments of the week were reductions from 4½ to 4 per cent in the New York and Chicago Federal Reserve rediscount rates, marking a return to normalcy after nearly two years of credit stringency.

Low Rates Aid Bonds.

The market for bonds and mortgages was directly stimulated. The effect upon building and construction should be at once favorable, although considerable difference of opinion exists as to how much business as a whole will be immediately influenced. The Annalist stated, "The inducement to borrowing is not primarily the low rate, but the rate of probable profit—and this depends much on business opportunities."

The most unsettling developments of the week were abrupt declines in the wheat and cotton markets, carrying futures to the lowest levels of the season. Cotton futures have declined during the last three weeks about $12 a bale. Unsettlement in the textile markets has caused considerable curtailment of activity by cotton mills, and cancellations of raw material orders were widely rumored.

The wheat market gave a better account of itself late in the week. The influence upon agricultural purchasing power of the decline in wheat is mitigated by the fact that farmers largely are believed to have disposed of their crop at the previous higher levels. Farm implement manufacturers continued to accelerate operations and regarded the outlook as good.

Steel Output Still Gains.

Steel mill activity continued to gain, although not at the rapid rate of late January, when consumers who had permitted stocks to decline to abnormally low levels were faced with shortages and forced suddenly to resume buying. Operations are now estimated at about 77 per cent of mill capacity, compared to 90 per cent a year ago. Several motor manufacturers reported increasing production, although for the most part caution continued to dominate the industry, pending more definite indications of the spring market.

F. W. Dodge Corporation reported that total building contracts let in the States east of the Rockies during January showed a gain over December for the first time in nine years. Although the gain was only 2 per cent, and the total fell 21 per cent short of the previous January, considerable significance was attached to this reversal of the normal trend from December to January, as the last time such a reversal occurred, in January of 1921, it marked the turning point after a long depression in the building industry.

Freight car loadings as reported for the week ended January 25 failed to reflect the improvement in certain of the heavy industries during the last fortnight. A small gain over the previous week, due to large movement of coal, was shown, but the total remained considerably below the levels of the last two years.

ADVICE ON INVESTMENTS

By CHARLES W. STORM.

Waldorf System; Two Others.

T. C. F.—Please give me some information regarding the status of Waldorf System, Inc., Austin Nichols preferred and American Reinsurance.

Answer—Your selection of the three stocks is good with the exception of Austin Nichols preferred. This company had not fared so well in recent years. Earnings have not been good, which accounts for the preferred stock being a nondividend payer. Waldorf is in a strong position and growing fast. Changes were made in the official line-up last year and since then earnings have been boosted along with sales.

Last October was the company's biggest month. Earnings for the eleven months ended with November equaled $2.20 per share, contrasted with $1.84 for the same months of 1928. The present $1.50 annual dividend, therefore, was earned by a good margin.

Profits of American Reinsurance amply cover the $3 dividend. Value of the company's holdings, as of November 15 last, the bottom of the recent crash, is equal to a liquidating value of $67 per share, thus placing the stock at its present market price in an attractive buying zone.

Cities Service and Others.

C. S. G.—Would you consider Cities Service an investment or is it more of a speculative stock? I have shares in Pennsylvania Railroad and the Pennroad Corporation and also some preferred stock of the Consolidated Gas & Electric Co. of Baltimore. What do you think of them?

Answer—Cities Service is regarded as a speculative investment. The company is paying annual cash dividends of 30 cents a share, plus 6 per cent in stock. This gives to the issue an investment status. Being widely distributed, with an active supply and demand, it may likewise be looked upon in the nature of a speculation. Company's earnings are more than satisfactory and its present outlook is exceptionally bright. Long-term holders of Cities Service in the past have been well rewarded for their patience. There is every reason to believe that they will continue to be in the future.

Pennroad Corporation is not on the dividend-paying list and therefore must be considered a speculation, even though it is so closley affiliated with the Pennsylvania Railroad. Moreover, it is an investment trust and this column makes it a practice not to comment upon securities of that description because the future success of such corporations is so largely dependent upon the efficiency of their management. Pennsylvania Railroad, paying $4 annually, and Consolidated Gas & Electric preferred, paying 5 per cent yearly, and both yielding at prevailing prices approximately 5 per cent on the investment, are very well thought of.

Concerning Six Companies.

J. P. F.—Will you kindly give me your opinion of the following companies of which I am a stockholder: International Superpower, International Carriers, American Ice, Associated Gas & Electric "A," Appalachian Corporation, A. Hollander & Sons?

Answer—All these stocks are speculative and are not to be classified as investments in the strict sense of the term. Considering that International Carriers, Appalachian and Hollander & Sons pay no dividends their stocks lack attraction, unless it be from a purely speculative viewpoint.

The rest, being on a dividend paying basis, have a fair degree of attractiveness and are perhaps worthy of holding for the long term. This applies particularly to the public utility companies named, in view of the fact that the outlook for all public utilities for the year 1930 appears, at this juncture, to be quite promising.

American Tel. & Tel. Co.

F. R. B.—Because you thought well of it, I bought 70 shares of American Telephone & Telegraph Co. stock at 220. If there is nothing on the horizon to change your good opinion of the stock, I will buy more. I am willing to wait a couple of years for results. Will you oblige me with your opinion?

Answer—Nothing has recently happened to change the writer's opinion with reference to the future of American Telephone & Telegraph Co. stock. On the contrary, if anything, it is even more strongly believed in than hitherto, considering the present movement in the direction of an increase in telephone rates in New York which, if granted, should mean increased revenues. Moreover, there is a strong movement now on foot for the unification of communication lines, in which the American Tel. & Tel. Co. is destined to play a very prominent part.

RAIL RISE FEATURES WEEK'S STOCK SALES

Cut in Bank Rates in Money Centers Is Outstanding Development.

TRADING IS VERY ACTIVE

New York, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—The stock market attained the best levels seen since late October during the early sessions of the past week, but encountered considerable liquidation at the higher levels, and gains were largely reduced as the week wore on, although selected issues, notably the rails, continued to attract good demand.

The outstanding developments of the week were the reductions in the London, New York and Chicago bank rates, but they had been so widely anticipated that the market appeared already to have discounted the good news when the announcements were made, and profit taking appeared in large volume. Widening interests in the market was apparent during the first half of the week, sales crossing the 4,000,000 share mark on Wednesday for the first time this year.

Resistance Proves Persistent.

It is notable that the market has persistently encountered resistance at the levels reached in the first rally after the crash of October 28 and 29, when the banking consortium was formed to stabilize the market. These levels were again reached in the first week of December, after which renewed pressure appeared. Reports to the effect that stock bought by the banking consortium and not yet liquidated had been taken over for long term investment have been heard, but official information has been negligible.

Regardless of the position of stock purchased by the consortium, the public is believed to have made extensive purchases on these early rallies in the hasty belief that the market would quickly rebound to the neighborhood of its pre-crash levels, and liquidation of such stock has probably formed an obstacle to further progress. Liquidation appeared to be diminishing at the end of the week, however, and during the past few days the market showed somewhat better resistance to selling than it has for some time. There were several unsettling factors which probably played important parts in the selling, notably the break in the cotton and wheat markets, and the cautious tone of the weekly business and mercantile reviews, which indicated that the recovery was proceeding less rapidly than in the last half of January.

Money rates sagged in sympathy with the lower rediscount rates, call loans renewed at 4 per cent on Friday for the second time in about two years. Considerable time money was available as low as 4½ per cent, and while commercial paper generally moved at 4¾, some business as low as 4½ was reported. Bankers acceptance rates were shaded slightly.

The most pronounced effect of the lower rediscount rates appeared in the bond market, which was immediately stimulated. The flotation of new issues of bonds and mortages has undoubtedly been facilitated, which should stimulate building and public works construction.

The movement in the rail shares was in the face of rather unsatisfactory car loadings reports. These issues, however, had not participated very actively in the recent rise of the market, and attention was naturally turned to them when the list began to falter elsewhere. The movement was given a decided fillip by announcement of a 4-for-1 split-up by Canadian Pacific.

WALL STREET GOSSIP

New York, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—The Morris & Essex Railroad Co., subsidiary of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, is offering tomorrow $25,000,000 construction bonds guaranteed by the parent company. Of the total, $15,000,000 is in 4½s, priced at 96½, and the remainder in 5s, at 103½. The bonds, maturing November 1, 1955, were originally issued to the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western.

One of the first large offerings of capital stock to be placed upon the market since the crash of last fall will be made tomorrow when a syndicate, headed by the National City Co., will offer 140,000 American shares of the General Italian Edison Electric Corporation. The stock, which represents ordinary shares of capital stock, will be offered at $44 a share and yielding about 6 per cent. Application is to be made to list the shares on the New York Stock Exchange.

Memphis Power & Light Co. is offering tomorrow a $2,500,000 issue of first mortgage 5 per cent bonds, due 1948, at 99.

"A moderate recovery is taking place in the steel, automobile, building and other basic industries, but it is too early to say that general business will be back to normal or above in a few weeks," says the business review of the current issue of the American Bankers Association Journal. "If the recovery is forced there is danger of a secondary reaction," the review adds. "What appears necessary is the avoidance of false starts, and a gradual but genuine acceleration up to reasonable speed and volume."

The International Standard Electric Corporation, manufacturing ausidiary of the International Telephone & Telegraph Co., has contracted to supply the Copenhagen Telephone Co. with rotary automatic telephone equipment for seven years.

Offering is made of a new issue of $2,000,00 Middle Rio Grande Conservancy District, State of New Mexico, 5½ per cent bonds, at par and accrued interest, to yield 5½ per cent. The bonds mature serially from August 1, 1934 to 1973, inclusive.

Announcement was made today that the Chase National Bank has concluded negotiations with the Cuban government for the purchase of $40,000,000 of its public works 5½ per cent gold bonds, maturing June 30, 1945, and that a public issue will be made shortly. The bonds are part of an authorized issue of $80,000,000, secured by a first preferential llen and charge on 90 per cent of certain revenues which, it is estimated, will amount to $18,000,000 annually.

One Dead, 16 Injured In Collision in Spain

Madrid, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—A railroad engineer was killed and sixteen persons were injured today in a collision between the Andalusian express and the Alicante express in Alcazar de San Juan, an important railroad junction in the province of Ciudad Real, south of here. All the victims were Spaniards.

Railroad officials blamed the accident on snow, which threw the Andalusian express off schedule.

40-Foot Plunge Fatal To Student; Trio Held

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Emil A. Fett, 25, Port Arthur, Tex., medical student at the University of Tennessee, died last night at Baptist Hospital from injuries received Thursday night when he leaped or fell 40 feet. Fett ran into the house and fled to the third floor in an effort to escape Joe Bledsoe and his wife, and William Lemoine, 30, police charge.

The woman and two men were arraigned for preliminary hearing yesterday afternoon on charges of assault to murder, and the case was continued pending outcome of Fett's injuries. They insisted that Fett fell from the window accidentally. Manslaughter charges will be filed against the trio, police announced.

The two premiers are old friends. Each wished the other success in the prosecution of his difficult work.

Hoover's G. O. P. Choice May Result in Fight From Senate Democrats.

The nomination of Hugh McCall Tate, of Knoxville, Tenn., to be interstate commerce commissioner for the term expiring December 31, 1936, was sent to the Senate Saturday by President Hoover. The nominee is a Republican and a fight over his confirmation is expected since Southern Democrats claim they are entitled to the place on the commission, which was formerly held by Richard V. Taylor, of Knoxville.

Mr. Tate is an attorney and a former chancellor of the Tennessee State Court. He was born in Morristown, Tenn., on September 15, 1882, and has spent his entire life in his natal city and Knoxville. He served on the chancery bench of the eleventh Tennessee division from 1918 to 1920 and resigned to join a legal firm. During the World War, he served as one of a corps of speakers, who toured the Southern States in interest of the Liberty loans.

Man Denies Brickbats For Road-Hog Scheme

(Associated Press.)

Ralph Meade, of Collegedale, Tenn., who figured recently in stories that he had a system of dealing brickbats to roadhogs, has denied any such purpose.

Mr. Meade was credited with having hurled a piece of brick at a motorist who did not give him the right of way near Washington. He has now stated that his difficulty occurred after a car had collided twice with his own and that, being outnumbered by the threatening occupants of the colliding car, he acted only to defend himself. He was allowed to make his own bond at the time the affair occurred. Police charges in the case were dismissed.

W. & L. HOST TO STATE MATMEN

Carolinians Hope to Mar Generals' Record Tonight.

Special to The Washington Post.

LEXINGTON, Va., Feb. 9.—Meeting North Carolina State in wrestling here tomorrow night, Coach Mathis will send his undefeated Washington and Lee grapplers against one of the strongest aggregations in the Southern Conference. The Wolfpack will send a team made up of veterans from 1929 in six of the eight divisions, while the two remaining weights will be filled by outstanding sophomores.

The Generals, victorious over William and Mary, Army and Virginia by one-sided scores in their three starts this year, will have only two members of the 1929 combine in action. Hall, 165-pounder, and Belser, 145-pound man, will be the lone veterans to go to the mat, since Capt. Kaplan, the third veteran usually available to Mathis, is nursing an injured ankle which is still too weak for competition. His place in the 125-pound class will be filled by Halpern.

Osterman to Fill Shoes Of Marshall.

Another shift in line-up was forced upon the Blue and White mentor at the start of this semester, since Walter Marshall, weighing 135 pounds, and one of the two or three best bets on the squad, completed his work for a degree and left school. Osterman, ineligible last year because of transferring, will fill his shoes.

North Caroline State has lost a close meet to the strong Virgina Tech Team, and has tied Davidson in its two dual meets so far this year. The Wolfpack will have a string of vets on hand in Eason, Stovall, Perry, Jones, Choplin and Crowson.

V. P. I. Matmen Win From Davidson, 19-11

Special to The Washington Post.

Blacksburg, Va., Feb. 9.—Virginia Polytechnic Institute wrestlers rolled up a commanding lead in the early bouts here last night to defeat Davidson College matmen, 9 to 11. V. P. I. took the 115, 135 and 145 pound events by time decisions and the 125 and unlimited classes by falls. The Wildcats came through with a spurt to annex the 155 and 165 pound events by heavy time advantages and the 175-pound bout by a fall.

Colby Graves, midget star of the Poly Team, put on a real thriller with Gorham and came out of a fast series of twists and turns to pin his man after 3 minutes 46 seconds.

Turner, Polytech 155-pounder, drew loud applause by slipping out of apparently fatal holds, time after time. Warren, Davidson 175-pounder, hurled a bombshell into the Poly camp by slipping over a winning hold on Ellett in the final minutes. Capt. Davis, giant Poly heavyweight, scored his eleventh straight fall to win the meet.

115-pound class—Pilder (Tech) defeated Cowan with time advantage of 1 minute 8 seconds.
125-pound class—Graves (Tech) threw Gorham in 3 minutes 46 seconds.
135-pound class—Mitchell (Tech) defeated Brown with time advantage of 3 minutes 27 seconds.
145-pound class—Bailey (Tech) defeated Brockwith with time advantage of 3 minutes and 47 seconds.
155-pound class—Conway (Davidson) defeated Turner with time advantage of 7 minutes 54 seconds.
165-pound class—Christenbury (Davidson) defeated Cecil with time advantage of 5 minutes 26 seconds.
175-pound class — Warren (Davidson) threw Ellett in 7 minutes 17 seconds.
Unlimited — Capt. Davis (Tech) threw Rockery in 5 minutes 46 seconds.

Celtic Five Trounces Marine Quint, 40-26

Special to The Washington Post.

Alexandria, Va., Feb. 9.—The St. Mary's Celtic Five defeated the Quantico Marines here this afternoon, 40 to 26. After taking a 20-to-12 lead at intermission the Celtics were extended to hold the advantage. The victors offered a fast-passing attack that troubled the Marines from the start. Lendo and Barnett led the Marine offensive.

In a preliminary game the Hyattsville Juniors handed the Clover A. C. Five a 17-to-13 setback. Bailey was the big scoring gun.

Roanoke Five Downs Bridgewater, 20-17

Special to The Washington Post.

Salem, Va., Feb. 9.—Roanoke College took a commanding lead in the first half and downed the Bridgewater Quintet, 20 to 17, in a rough-and-tumble game on the floor here last night. The Maroons held the Eagles to two field goals in the first period and successfully overcame a desperate rally in the last to keep things going their way until the end of the game.

Rutherford played the finest game for the Maroons counting 11 points. Allen followed with 7, while Fiener led the visitors with three field goals. Neither team had much success in penetrating within easy scoring distance, and they resorted frequently to

LITTLE DRAWS FOUR ASSISTANTS FROM HILLTOP

Pilots Differ In Ideas on Training

Johnson and Street Exceptions; Both Favor Golf.

Former Battery Mates Differ in Number of Daily Drills.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

THERE are sixteen different managers in the two major leagues and, by the same token, there are sixteen different sets of ideas as to how a baseball team should be trained. Which is the best system never will be known except that, as a general proposition, it seems to be an accepted fact that the ones used by the respective champions in the two leagues must have been pretty good—for that particular season, at least, even though the two systems were at variance.

It is really remarkable how the experts disagree. No two leaders view things exactly the same and this is especially true in the case of a new manager, who generally has some brand new ideas which he wants to put into effect. Take the case of Charles E. (Gabby) Street, for instance, who will take a fling at piloting the St. Louis Cardinals during the coming season.

Street, an old battery mate of Walter Johnson, has many of the Washington pilot's ideas, but he differs in one respect. Street, like Johnson, does not see where golf playing will do his athletes any harm and will not place a ban on it unless some take advantage of their freedom in this respect and overdo it.

Walking in Golf Good For Players.

Not only does Street disagree with many, who believe that the golf swing, different from that at the baseball plate, will affect a player's batting eye, but he subscribes to Johnson's idea that the walking necessary in the game is particularly good for an athlete's legs and that the pure air on the links is much more beneficial than that of a smokey room or hotel lobby.

Johnson and Street also have the same ideas as regards the leg-work and foot-pounding for his pitching candidates. "I plan to see that the pitchers do plenty of running," he declared in a recent interview. Get their legs in shape and you'll find that their arms and their bodies are fit for nine full innings. In my experience I have discovered that if you can get a pitcher leg-weary in a ball game, you usually don't have much trouble 'taking' him."

Ideas Alike Regarding Discipline.

The two former battery mates also have the same ideas as to rules of conduct. "The more rules you make, the more there are to break," says Street, "and if you have a flock of rules and then do not enforce them, the first thing you know the players haven't any respect for any of them or for the manager who made them. My plan is to have very few 'don'ts,' but those I do have must be followed. I am not going to be 'hard boiled' and will try out what might be termed the honor system. Of course, if this don't work, then I'll have to 'get hard,' but I don't want to."

Where Street and Johnson differ, however, is as to the number of daily workouts. The Washington leader believes in one daily session, but a strenuous one. "I've found," says Johnson, "that a player gets more benefit from one real workout than from two. I've tried them both and have discovered that when a player knows he has to work again in the afternoon he loafs some in the morning to save himself for the afternoon session. And it's much better to get all of the work out of one's system at one time."

On the other hand, "Gaby" says that he will have two workouts a day and both will be as long and as strenuous as he can make them.

As Johnson and Street learned their baseball in the same school, one would think that their training ideas would be identical, but it's simply another illustration of the old saying that no two people think alike. As they say on the track, "It's these differences of opinion that make hoss racing."

SATURDAY.
George Washington vs. Navy, at Annapolis.
Georgetown vs. Syracuse, at Syracuse, N. Y.
American vs. Duquesne, at Pittsburgh, Pa.
Maryland vs. Virginia, at College Park.

CAPITAL college athletes today start upon their busiest week of the winter. Their competitive program consists of fourteen basket ball games, three meets each in boxing and track and two in swimming. Only five of the events will be held here, however.

Featuring the program is the Georgetown-Loyola, of Chicago, basket ball game tonight at Tech High School. The second ranking attraction is the Catholic-Washington and Lee boxing meet to be staged Saturday night at Brookland. The Catholic swimmers will make their home debut on Friday night in a dual meet with William and Mary.

American and Catholic will clash tonight also in a strictly local basket ball game at the former's gymnasium. This contest will get under way at 8 o'clock, while the Georgetown-Loyola scrap will start at 8:30. The Georgetown Freshmen and Benjamin Franklin Fives will stage a preliminary, commencing at 7:15.

Loyola has won 34 out of its last 36 games dating back as far as the 1927-1928 season. It was defeated Saturday night by Duquesne at Pittsburgh and week before last by Purdue on the latter's floor. Middle-Western experts consider the Ramblers one of the strongest quintets in the history of the game in their section.

Murphy Star of Team.

Charley Murphy, elongated center, is the star of the Loyola Five. His shooting is said to be marvelous. His supporting cast, individually and collectively, are reputed to be far better than the collegiate average.

Georgetown's trackmen also will be active tonight, the 2-mile relay team of Julicher, Mara, Downing and Kelly, and Victor Burke, quarter-miler, competing in the Seton Hall games at Newark, N. J. The Meadowbrook meet Wednesday night at Philadelphia and the Boston A. A. games Saturday night in the Hub also will attract Hilltop entries. Maryland's mile relay team and Bob Quinn, sprinter, will compete in the Meadowbrook meet.

George Washington's boxers will invade New York City Friday for a match with Manhattan College, and the Georgetown ringmen will travel to West Point Saturday to clash with the Cadets. After entertaining William and Mary Friday night, the Catholic swimmers will go to Baltimore the next night to engage Johns Hopkins.

G. W. to Meet Gallaudet.

In the only other local events, besides those mentioned, George Washington and Gallaudet will battle in basket ball Wednesday night in the Colonials' Gymnasium, and Catholic's quintet will play host to University of Baltimore Thursday night.

Maryland's quintet has three road games and one at home—all in the Southern Conference. The Terps open their program tomorrow night with V. P. I. at Blacksburg, go to Lexington Wednesday night to meet V. M. I. and remain there to engage Washington and Lee Thursday night. On Saturday they tackle Virginia here.

George Washington will return to action on Saturday, meeting Navy at Annapolis. Georgetown will leave town to oppose Canisius at Buffalo and Syracuse at Syracuse on Friday and Saturday, respectively.

POTOMAC B.C. WINS FROM TANKERS

Boatmen Score, 58 to 39, in Fast 60-Minute Game.

THE Potomac Boat Club Five encountered what it first thought was a handicap yesterday when it engaged the Tank Corps Cagers at Fort Meade. The Tankers requested 15-minute periods and the request was conceded. The Soldiers ran up a 15-to-4 lead in the first 15 minutes of play, but the distance proved too far and the Boatmen came back to take the lead at the end of 30 minutes, 33 to 32, and finished on the long end, 58 to 39.

During the lengthy contest, 52 foul shots were attempted, another unusual feature. Potomac players potted but 12 of 28 free tosses, and the Soldiers sank 13 of 24.

Aman and Atkins led the victors' attack. Stapp was the big gun in the Tankers' offensive.

ST. MARTIN'S FIVE WINS, 32 TO 15

Wanley in Star Role as Rockville Team Is Defeated.

ST. MARTIN'S fast-traveling unlimited class fivee last night journeyed to Rockville to beat the Rockville tossers, 32 to 15. Led by Johnny Wanley, they took an early lead and simply coasted to victory, enjoying a 19-5 edge at intermission.

Wanle accounted for 14 points, the result of six double-deckers and two goals from the freedom line, and, in addition, proved to be a whale on defense. Lanier, lanky center, was high gun for the losers, tallying 6 points. He also put up an exceptional all-round game.

The Saints, who have entered in the District A. A. U. title tourney, will tackle another Maryland five tonight, tackling the strong Company F national guardsmen, in the Hyattsville Armory at 8:45. Players are requested to report at the St. Martin's clubhouse not later than 7:30 p. m. Sox Harrington, at North 2622-J is booking games.

Ingram Sees Little Hope Of Peace

Retiring Navy Athletic Director Writes 'Log' on Army Tangle.

Blames West Point for Break; Situation Is Reviewed

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 9.—To make clear the Naval Academy's position in the controversy over eligibility rules that led to the final break in athletics with the Military Academy, Commander Jonas H. Ingram, director of athletics at the naval school, today issued a lengthy statement reviewing the situation from the time the agitation was first started nearly 80 years ago.

Ingram will relinquish his duties here on February 25, after nearly four years' service as athletic boss, during which he has been a party to developments that came thick and fast until the final breach came in July, 1928, since which time Army and Navy have not met in football or other branches of sport, and it was his desire before surrendering the reins that the Naval Academy position should be presented for the benefit of all members of the Navy Athletic Association.

Copies of the statement or review, which is called a "Log of the Army-Navy Athletic Controversy," will be sent to all athletic association members.

Eligibility Talked Since 1900.

The "Log" points out that elegibility has been a controversial subject since back in 1900, to the days of Charley Daly, former Harvard and all-American star, and then reviews in detail the various conferences and negotiations between official representatives of the two institutions bearing upon the freshmen rule and the three-year rule, which Navy insisted upon, but pointing out that the only successful achievement in the way of a pact between the service schools was the agreement of the freshmen rules.

As set forth in the statement, discussion of the issue has been carried from one administration to another at the respective schools. The real serious side of the question, says the "log" began to assert itself back in 1920, when West Point persisted in playing former college stars, some of them all-American caliber, and, as the statement points out, in line with a doctrine at West Point that good athletes make the best officer material, and that officers of the R. O. T. C. were instructed to encourage athletes of proved ability to go to West Point.

Reaching an agreement now seems hopeless, the statement says, notwithstanding that Rear Admiral Samuel S. Robison, present superintendent of the Naval Academy, submitted a compromise proposal last fall which it was hoped West Point would accept.

Efforts Made for Compromise.

After summing up the various correspondence had between the two academy chiefs, the Ingram statement reads in part as follows:

"Every effort has been made by Admiral Robison to arrive at an answer to the question of eligibility and has offered every compromise that would seem to have possibility of acceptance by West Point.

"In recent months public utterances have been made by some West Point authorities to the effect that the Navy was guilty of breaking a contract. Admiral Robison invited the superintendent of West Point's attention to the fact that a public statement made by an Army officer with the deliberate intent of discrediting naval officers can not pass unnoticed and that if accusations are to be made to make them through official channels.

"The end of January, 1930, shows no improvement in the general situation as it appears to be useless to make any further advances."

G. U. and Yale Nines Schedule 3 Contests

Georgetown University has scheduled Yale for three baseball games this spring, two to be played on successive days and the other on Decoration Day. The dates are April 7 and 8 and May 30. The first two games will be played at the Hilltop during Yale's annual Southern trip. The third will be held in New Haven.

Brentwood Hawks, With Woman Manager, Backed To Win A. A. U. Honors

THE loss of the services of their star forward, Johnny Wanley, has not dampened the ardor of the Brentwood Hawks in their quest for the District A. A. U. unlimited championship to be awarded in the tournament to be held next month under the auspices of The Washington Post.

Wanley, who aided in carrying the Hawks into the final stages of the 145-pound championship race last year and has held high scoring honors in the Prince Georges County League this season with the Brentwood champions of that circuit, will sport St. Martin's colors in the unlimited title battle next month.

Mrs. Sarah Kaske, the only woman managing an unlimited basket ball team in and around the District, has collected a galaxy of former and present high school stars to represent the Hawks.

Hawks Have Faithful Rooters.

No band of followers is more faithful than that which trails the destinies of the Hawks. The Hawks were supported by probably the largest group of loyal followers in attendance at the championship games last year, and the same spirit was evidenced by the players.

The Hawks have clinched two league championships this year—the Prince Georges County and tricounty titles. Wanley has aided materially in both of these conquests, and, although he will be in rival ranks in the tournament, the Hawks will be just as confident and plan to use the same style of play which has carried them to two championships this season.

Want Scalps of Montrose And St. Martins.

Two specific ambitions are hidden behind the championship hopes of the Hawks. Nothing would bring more pleasure to the Brentwood clan than victories over the Montrose A. C. and St. Martin's fives. It was the Montrose crew that knocked the Hawks out of the title scrap last year in the closing rounds. Now that Wanley is with St. Martin's, the Hawks have a desire to humble the team which their star chose to play with instead of them.

EAGLES BEAT PRO FIVE, 47 TO 22

Sweeney and Allen Are Stars Before Capacity Crowd.

THE Skinker Bros. Eagles disposed of another threat to their basket ball supremacy of this section yesterday afternoon when they trampled the highly touted West Virginia Paper & Pulp Co. Tossers from Piedmont, W. Va., 47 to 22, on the Silver Spring Armory floor.

Led by Joe Sweeney and Duke Allen, the Eagles took an early lead and were never headed. Sweeney sank eight goals from scrimmage and added a pair of successful foul shots. Allen played a clever floor game and hung up five baskets during the course of the contest.

First Half Fairly Even.

The visitors battled the Eagles on fairly even terms for the first half, trailing 16 to 24 at intermission. The Eagle defense tightened materially in the final half and but six points were credited the visiting Mountaineers.

A busy week of preparation is ahead for the Eagles, as they will oppose the Paterson, N. J., Pros. next Sunday afternoon in the Silver Spring Armory. Manager Bernie Peacock expects a record crowd out to see the Eagles meet competition nearer their class.

IN THE COLLEGE CORNER

By JACK ESPEY

SAM CORDOVANO has received the reward due him for his great football playing at Georgetown University. In being appointed varsity line coach at Columbia University to assist Lou Little, as announced last night, the Buffalo boy joins that select group who have stepped from players' berths into those of varsity coaches without any stops at the coaching way-stations. It is a distinction in keeping with the brand of football that Sam served for three straight seasons at the Hilltop.

While Cordovano undoubtedly was one of the best guards Georgetown ever had, he did not receive an unusual amount of credit in the press; that is, except the local press. He played several times away from Washington, but somehow the football writers failed to note anything exceptional about his performances. At the same time, however, his opponents and their coaches always did.

Cordovano should experience little difficulty fitting into the job of a coach, for during his playing career he was often called on by his teammates for instruction during the progress of games. His vast store of gridiron knowledge, which was quickly acquired, was the envy of many fellow players.

Little Loudly Lauds Great Guard.

In announcing his appointment, Little declared: "Cordovano was the keenest and smartest lineman during my stay at Georgetown. I expect him to develop into a great line coach. He needs experience; but when John Da Grossa (formerly Little's assistant, now line coach at Temple University) came to Georgetown he had less experience than Cordovano. Cordovano will develop at Columbia as Da Grossa did at Georgetown."

Marlboro Wins Soccer Game; Rockville Bows

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 9.—The Parkside Reserves conquered the Rockville Team of the Washington League in a cup soccer game at Patterson Park by a 4-to-0 score today. In another game, Marlboro defeated the East Baltimore Democrats, 3 to 0. Parkside tallied in the first twenty minutes, when Haas, outside left, drove a hard shot through the goal. Rockville was given a penalty, but Wasik, Parkside goalie, stopped the attempt.

Kopf to Join Columbia Coach

McCabe, Cordovano, Liston, Former G.U. Players, Signed.

Kopf to Drill Ends and Backs; Furey Tutors Frosh.

COACHES Herbert Kopf and George McCabe and Players Sam Cordovano and Paul Liston, who have served at Georgetown University during the last five years, have been appointed to assist Lou Little in football coaching at Columbia University, The Post was informed last night by Little, former coach and athletic director of Georgetown.

Kopf will act as end and back field coach at the New York City institution, while Cordovano will be line coach. McCabe and Liston will assist in the coaching of the freshmen eleven. Arthur Sampson, head coach of Tufts College, of Massachusetts, has been appointed as a back field coach, and Ralph Furey, at present connected with Columbia, has been signed as a freshman mentor to complete his staff, Little stated.

Kopf With Little For 5 Years.

Kopf assisted Little for five years at Georgetown, acting in the capacity of end coach. McCabe helped in the coaching of the Georgetown freshmen last fall, following four years of playing at the Hilltop as a quarter back. Cordovano and Liston, a pair of brilliant guards, completed their player careers at Georgetown with the close of the 1929 season.

Commenting on his selections, Little declared that he expected his staff to be by far the best he has ever employed. With the exceptions of Sampson and Furey, he said, they have been personally trained and coached by him, and he knows in detail what he can expect of them. Sampson is an exceptionally good student of the game and has an impressive record as a coach. He and Little have been personal friends for a number of years.

Cordovano and Liston are studying law at Georgetown at present. Each has another year in the course before graduating. They probably will transfer their studies to Columbia next fall.

GALLAUDET'S STAR TOPS SCORERS

Cosgrove Has Total of 194; Gaylor Makes Gain.

DEL COSGROVE'S domination of the individual scoring race among Capital college basketers continued last week. The keen-eyed Gallaudet forward now sports the fancy figures of 194 points for thirteen games, or, an average of 14.92 points per game.

A teammate, Johnny Ringle, came with a rush during the six-day period and moved into second place with a total of 130 for the same number of games last week, Cosgrove grabbing off 31 tallies and Ringle 28.

Bob Gaylor, Maryland star, supplied one of the features of the week, by jumping his total from 77 to 101, which earned him fifth place ahead of Freddy Mesmer, of Georgetown, whose total is 87.

The individual leadership in field goals belongs to Cosgrove, who has whipped the cords for 82 double-deckers, and the foul tossing lead rests with Dutton, who has dropped in exactly a half-hundred one-pointers.

Five Hargrave Stars Banned for Two Weeks

Danville, Va., Feb. 9.—Five star athletic students have been suspended from Hargrave Military Academy at Chatham for two weeks for hazing, information received here today revealed. Col. Camden, superintendent of the academy, confirmed the report by telephone that the students had been suspended for two weeks, and stated that the action was taken because they made "another student dance," but declined to give further details, or to supply the name of the student who was made to dance.

Those suspended were "Ruffie" Chacnock, three-sport man, captain of the football team and a member of the track and baseball teams; Mark Vaughan, captain of the track team and football star; John O'Brien, manager of the football team; Joan Burke, captain of the tennis team and Hargrave's champion javelin thrower. All are seniors and are expected to have left for their homes yesterday.

SLATTERY, SCOZZA IN LIGHT HEAVY CLASH TONIGHT

N. Y. Awards Crown to Winner

Bout Is Feature of Week in National Fistic Circles.

Carnera to Continue Along Rural Free Delivery Route.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Two Buffalo boys, Jimmy Slattery and Lou Scozza, hold the center of the fistic stage this week, they meet at Buffalo tomorrow night in a bout which will decide the world's light heavyweight championship so far as the New York State Athletic Commission is concerned. The bout is over the championship distance of fifteen rounds.

Slattery, a master boxer, rules a slight favorite over Scozza, a rough and ready customer who wears his opponents down with body punches. The distance favors Scozza for there is considerable doubt whether Slattery can maintain his speed for so long a battle.

The State Commission, in ruling that the bout was for the championship relinquished by Tommy Loughran, added a condition that the winner must meet Maxie Rosenbloom, Harlem Clown within 60 days with the title at stake.

Rosenbloom, incidentally, meets Ace Hudkins, the Nebraska wildcat, in the feature bout in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Primo Carnera, Italian giant, makes his fourth start in the United States against Buster Martin, of Tulsa, Okla., at St. Louis Tuesday night. Mickey Walker, middleweight titleholder, meets Leo Lomski, Aberdeen, Wash., light heavyweight, in a non-title bout at Detroit Friday night.

PONTIACS ARE BUSY.

The Pontiac A. C. Five will engage the Calvary Drakes tomorrow night at 9 o'clock at Eastern High and will clash with the Potomac Boat Club Team at Central High Thursday night at the same hour. The Pontiacs are scheduled with other registered teams at Georgia 2202.

WOLTZ WINS, 40-28, OVER STEWARTS

MacCartee, of Tech, Stars in Clash of A. A. U. Foes.

CAPTAIN CARL MacCARTEE, of Tech High School, championship five, made his appearance in a Woltz uniform yesterday at Silver Spring and helped the Woltzman to defeat the Stewart Bros. Five, 40 to 28. MacCartee showed his worth to the team by scoring five baskets from the floor and one point by way of the foul route.

The game was extremely close for three quarters, the Woltzmen leading by the slim margin of 26 to 22 at the end of the third quarter, but the strain told on the Stewart boys and the Woltzmen stepped out in the last period and scored 14 points.

Bill Banta also played a bang-up game for the winners, while Hessler was best for the losers.

Spit is a horrid word, but it is worse on the end of your cigar

DON'T SPIT!
SPITTING SPREADS DISEASE SCIENCE CONDEMNS IT DECENCY FORBIDS IT
The Law Makes It Punishable
DON'T SPIT!
BOARD OF HEALTH

. . . the war against Spitting is a crusade of decency . . . join it. Smoke CERTIFIED CREMO!

Thousands of men who would gladly trounce a spitter caught in the act continue, nevertheless, to accept cigars rolled by dirty fingers and tipped with spit! And remember more than half of all cigars made in this country are made by hand, and therefore subject to the risk of spit!

Certified Cremo protects you against this abomination! Every tobacco leaf entering the clean, sunny Certified Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods developed by the United States Government during the war. And its purity is safeguarded along every step of the way by amazing inventions that foil, wrap and tip the cigars without the possibility of spit!

Try a Certified Cremo—see how wonderfully good it is! Made of the choicest, tenderest leaves that the crop affords, we claim Certified Cremo's quality is tastier than that of any other cigar. Don't let its 5c price stand in your way. Your physician has in mind a cigar like Certified Cremo when he recommends a mild smoke in place of heavy brands.

Crush-proof . . . immaculate . . . foil-wrapped . . . Certified Cremo is the kind of cigar the late Vice-President Marshall undoubtedly was thinking of when he said: "What this country needs is a good 5c cigar!"

BANQUET IS PLANNED BY ELECTRIC LEAGUE

Turpin Elected President for Ensuing Term; Kirchner Given Testimonial.

HOME SHOW TO BE HELD

Starting its fiscal year at a meeting Thursday night, the Electric League of Washington elected and installed officers and organized a committee to arrange for the annual banquet of the organization, which will be held at the Raleigh Hotel on the evening of Tuesday, March 4.

Officers elected were M. C. Turpin, Westinghouse Co., president; Howard P. Foley, vice president; Frank T. Shull, treasurer, and Norman H. Barnes, secretary. The committee arranging the banquet includes Howard P. Foley, chairman; L. T. Souder, entertainment; J. W. Reese, souvenirs; J. C. Burns, ticket distribution; N. H. Barnes, publicity, and M. C. Clay, secretary. Mr. Clay was reappointed manager of the Electric League, a nonprofit organization, including in its membership men engaged in various branches of the electrical industry in the city.

The seventh annual banquet of the Electric League will be addressed by Earl E. Whitehorne, president of the Electrical League of New York City and editor of a group of electrical technical magazines. A program of novel entertainment will feature the dinner meeting. Special lighting effects, electrical souvenirs and an unusual program will be other attractions.

Word has been received that delegations from Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York will attend and it is expected that a group from Pittsburgh will visit Washington to tour the city and to attend the banquet.

Arrangements were made for the Electric League to hold a model electric home demonstration in connection with the annual food show in the Washington Auditorium in April. C. E. Raymond was named chairman of the committee which will conduct this educational activity.

The meeting was held in the auditorium of the Potomac Electric Power Co. Joseph T. Kirchner, retiring president, presided during the opening part of the session, and upon turning the chair over to the new president, was given a set of golf clubs.

Five Legislators Fly to New York

Aircraft Show Is Attended by Half of Minnesota Delegation Here.

Half of the Minnesota delegation in the House of Representative, led by their flying colleague, Representative Melvin J. Maas, flew to New York yesterday morning to attend the aircraft show in that city. The contingent of five representatives took off from Bolling Field at 9:30 o'clock in a trimotored Army transport piloted by Lieut. Leland S. Stranathan, and landed at Mitchel Field, Long Island, at 11:30 o'clock.

Of the six members of Congress who had expressed their intention of flying to the show, only one, Representative John J. O'Connor, of New York, failed to show up at the appointed time for the take-off. Officers at Bolling Field were frankly astonished that there were no more last moment changes of heart, in view of past experiences with congressional flying parties.

Those who flew were, besides Mr. Maas, who is a Marine Corps pilot, Representatives Frank Clague, William I. Nolan, Paul J. Kvale and Godfrey G. Goodwin, all of Minnesota. After attending the show and a banquet as guests of the Aviation Post of the American Legion, sponsors of the show, they expect to fly back today, landing at Bolling Field about noon.

COL. LYNCH GUEST OF OSCAR DE PRIEST

Former Negro Member of Congress to Appear at Celebration Tonight.

TWO OTHERS HERE ALSO

Col. John R. Lynch, colored octogenarian, former member of Congress from Mississippi, arrived here Saturday night as the guest of Representative Oscar De Priest, who will pay special tribute to him tonight in the Washington Auditorium at a mass meeting in celebration of National Negro History Week under auspices of a citizens' committee of 200 and the National Association for Study of Negro Life and History.

Two other former Negro members of the House of Representatives, Henry P. Cheatham, of North Carolina, and Thomas E. Miller, of South Carolina, will speak from the same platform, together with Representative De Priest and Senator Otis F. Glenn, of Illinois. The mass meeting has been given the support of the public school administration and the community centers department, and organizations of the association in Norfolk, Richmond, Baltimore and Philadelphia.

Lynch, who maintained his residence here for a number of years after he served in Congress, was born a slave in Louisiana and gained his freedom by the emancipation proclamation. He was a photographer at Natchez, Miss., until 1869, when he was elected to the State Legislature, and following reelection was sent to the Forty-third, the Forty-fourth and Forty-seventh Congresses.

At the time of his last election, he was not seated, the contest between Lynch and Chalmers being that of the famous "Shoestring District:" Lynch later, in the Republican national convention of 1884, was elected temporary chairman, the first and only colored man ever to preside at the convention of a national party.

The mass meeting will be preceded by a banquet at the Armstrong High School. It will be followed by celebrations by Negro history week in public and private schools throughout the South, and in the literary and religious societies of various church denominations throughout the country. Dr. Carter G. Woodson is director of the movement.

NEWS FROM MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

MEETING TO HONOR FATHER OF COUNTRY

Change in Calendar Causes Alexandria Society to Celebrate Feb. 11.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The Washington Society of Alexandria will observe its 130th anniversary with an open meeting in the Young People's Building, Prince and St. Asaph streets, tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

While Washington's Birthday is universally celebrated on February 22, Washington, and after his death the Washington Society of Alexandria, always adhered to the old-style calendar under which he was born, which placed his birthday on February 11. Washington was 20 years old at the time of the adoption of the Gregorian calendar by England, and the present calendar was not adopted in Alexandria until after Washington's death. Consequently, the Washington Society, upon its reorganization a few years ago, decided to celebrate February 11 as the real anniversary of Washington's birth.

The principal speaker at the celebration tomorrow night will be Frank W. Noxon, who will deliver an address on "The George Washington Shrines in England," which will be illustrated by lantern slides. On account of the educational value of this lecture, an invitation has been issued to the high school students of the city to attend.

Mrs. Robert Miller Reese, local chairman of the Robert E. Lee Memorial Foundation, who has been directing the campaign in this city the last three weeks to raise funds toward the purchase and restoration of Stratford, the birthplace of Gen. Lee, has announced the headquarters at 717 King street will continue open several days longer. In the last week the contributions have been most encouraging. Alexandria has to date raised almost $3,000 and the committee is endeavoring to bring the total to that sum before closing the drive.

The local committee is Mrs. Reese, chairman; Mrs. Gardner L. Boothe, vice chairman; George E. Warfield, treasurer; Mrs. Minnigerode Andrews, Mrs. William J. Boothe, Miss Virginia Burke, Mrs. Charles Ellett Cabell, Mrs. L. H. Dudley, Mrs. Francis H. Fannon, Mrs. Charles W. Howell, Mrs. Wallace Lindsay, Miss Mary Lindsay, Mrs. D. Mauchlin Niven, Mrs. Carroll Pierce, Mrs. Thomas W. Robinson, Mrs. C. A. S. Sinclair, Mrs. Rathbone Smith and Miss Alice Whitton These, with others interested in the work, have been keeping the headquarters open each day and receiving the contributions.

Mrs. M. C. C. Peyton, who so far as known is the last surviving refugee who followed the Confederate forces from Alexandria in 1861, has been assisting, and on one occasion was assisted by Miss Caroline Fitzhugh Morton, the younger daughter of the Rev. Dr. William Jackson Morton, rector of Christ Protestant Episcopal Church, where Gen. Lee was an attendant, and where his pew is designated by a silver plate, and a tablet to his memory is on the wall, the church officers placing flowers under it each January 19.

Columbia Engine and Motor Company No. 1, of the Alexandria Fire Department, will celebrate its fifty-ninth anniversary on March 10 with a banquet in the company's house. State Senator Frank L. Ball, sponsor of the firemen's compensation act in the Virginia Assembly, has been invited to attend and deliver the principal address. Others invited are Mayor William Albert Smoot, other members of the city council, City Manager Wallace Lawrence, Delegate J. Fred Birrell and Attorney J. Randall Caton.

Fire Chief James M. Duncan, jr., will be a special guest, as will George S. Watson, chief of the District of Columbia Department, and Sergt. A. J. Bargagni, originator of the firemen's Labor Day parade. Officers of companies 1, 2 and 5 are also expected to attend. George S. French, the only surviving charter member of the company, will be invited. The Rev. Hugh McFadden, assistant pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church, will be invited to give the invocation, and the Rev. George J. Hooker, pastor of the Methodist Protestant Church, will pronounce the benediction.

Norman Roberts, veteran president of the company, will act as toastmaster, and a company of women under the direction of Mrs. Stuart M. Jones will serve the banquet. Covers will be laid for 125 guests.

The committee in charge of arrangements consists of Charles B. Cook, chairman; Leo Moore, John Edmonds, Noble Smith, Norman Roberts, Julian Davis, C. P. Smith and John Posey.

The board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce will meet at 3 o'clock this afternoon, and consider, among other matters, the report of the committee of twelve appointed to go into the reorganization of the activities of the chamber.

This committee will make a preliminary report suggesting that the membership of the committee be increased to 25 members, and that additional time be allowed for filing a complete report.

According to President Fred C. Goodnow, of the Chamber of Commerce, this is the most important committee that has ever been appointed since the organization of the chamber, as upon its report will depend the future activities of the chamber.

Among other plans being considered by this committee is the appointment of a man whose principal duty will be the securing for Alexandria of additional industries, as outlined at the last annual meeting of the chamber.

Mistrial Declared For Wife Slayer

Raleigh Jury Is Unable to Reach Verdict in Hamilton Case.

Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 9 (A.P.).—A mistrial was declared by Judge Frank Daniels in Wake County Superior Court here when a jury reported today that it was unable to reach a verdict on a charge of first degree murder against Dorsey St. Clair Hamilton, former Norfolk, Va., paint contractor, for killing his wife. One juror said that the jury was deadlocked on a vote of 9 to 3 for acquittal. Hamilton pleaded temporary insanity.

Hamilton shot and killed his wife here August 5, 1927. When brought to trial he was held by a jury to be incapable of pleading and was sent to the State hospital for the insane, where last fall he was judged to be sane and remanded for trial.

The defense admitted that Hamilton killed his wife and sought to prove that he had been out of his mind for six months prior to the time of the shooting. The defendant, middle aged, testified that he remembered nothing of the slaying. The jury received the case at 8:30 last night.

OLD WILLIAMSBURG ENGRAVING FOUND

Copper Plate, Antedating 1746, Gives Data Long Sought for Restoration.

DISCOVERED AT OXFORD

Williamsburg, Va., Feb. 9 (A.P.).—A dusty copper engraving found in the Bodleian Library, Oxford University, England, showing views of Williamsburg in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, has been hailed here as one of the most important developments in the accurate completion of the restoration project being sponsored by John D. Rockefeller, jr.

For more than two years research workers have sought in this country for early views, the Bodleian plate satisfying the entire search in a single find.

The discovery was made by Miss Mary F. Goodwin, of Williamsburg, who has conducted the research campaign in England for several months. Restoration architects, working largely from written records and archaeological findings, had prepared drawings before the discovery was made which have been found to be almost identical with the engraved views.

Engraving in Three Panels.

The engraving is divided into three panels, the top and center panels containing three views each and the bottom carrying illustrations of the flora and fauna of Virginia. The buildings are numbered and are listed as follows:

Brafferton Indian School, erected in 1723, the first Indian school in America.

A front view of the main building of the College of William and Mary. Erected in 1695, it is the oldest academic building in America, and is said to be the only definite example in America of the work of Sir Christopher Wren.

The president's home of the College of William and Mary, erected in 1732.

Used by Cornwallis.

It was used as headquarters by Lord Cornwallis prior to the Yorktown siege, and afterward as headquarters of the French surgeon general.

The first capitol known as such in America, erected in 1705 to succeed the statehouse at Jamestown as the seat of Virginia government, and destroyed by fire in 1746.

A rear view of the main building of the College of William and Mary, showing the chapel wing erected in 1732.

The first royal governor's palace in America, erected about 1705. It was burned in 1781, and is to be restored on its original foundations.

THE NEW WEEK'S BILLS

PALACE

"SEVEN DAYS LEAVE." Paramount all-dialogue production with incidental music, adapted with additional dialogue by Dan Totheroh and John Farrow from Sir James M. Barrie's play, "The Old Lady Shows Her Medals," featuring Beryl Mercer and Gary Cooper. Directed by Richard Wallace. Reviewed Saturday night.

By NELSON B. BELL

Possessed of not the faintest spark of love interest or romantic fire, but rich in humor, pathos and that intensely human quality with which Barrie is able to imbue his characters, this superbly executed film version of a quaint and appealing play must be written high among the conspicuous achievements of the articulate screen.

Despite the masculinized title, this admirable translation to a new medium of "The Old Lady Shows Her Medals" is first a triumph for Beryl Mercer, and, secondly, a superlative vehicle for the unique talents of Daisy Belmore, Nora Cecil and Tempe Pigott, a trio of mature character actresses who deliver uncommonly fine performances. Gary Cooper occupies a remote and undistinguished third place in a role for which he is meagerly equipped and for which he evidently was selected merely as a sop to the box office.

The play, in the large view, is a placid document glorifying the contagion of patrotism inspired by the pathetic effort of a poor little spinister charwoman—childless and heart-hungry to have some part in the war—to do her bit. To belong to that great London majority having dear ones at the front, she builds up a fantastic delusion of a son in the trenches. Then her "son"—a renegade planning to utilize seven days leave as any easy aid to desertion—miraculously appears on the scene and finally dies a hero in partial fulfillment of all that Sarah Ann Dowey has wanted him to be.

Beryl Mercer, one of the finest of contemporary actresses, contributes a perfect portrayal of Mrs. Dowey. Her assumption of an agreebale Scotch burr is as deft as her broader and coarser Cockney in "Three Live Ghosts," and in every mood of the picture her realization of the fullest possibilities of the role is flawless and complete. Daisy Belmore and Nora Cecil, as proud scullery women with sons in the war, are scarcely less entitled to a rating of perfection, and Tempe Pigott is tremendously vivid as another mother with a fighting son, and a taste for drink, as well.

Gary Cooper, wearing the kilts of the Black Watch, lets any attempt at forceful or sustained characterization end there. He "walks through" his part, lending it neither color nor conviction. Arthur Hoyt does a short "bit" far more efficiently. It is to be regretted that Charles McNaughton could not have been held over with Miss Mercer from "Three Live Ghosts" for the role of Kenneth Gowey.

On the stage, "Bermuda Bound" introduces Teddy Joyce as a nimble and versatile master of ceremonies, whose dancing and violining easily scored the hit of the show. He, in turn, introduced Helen McFarland, singer, dancer and xylophonist; the Palace Syncopators in a "hot" tune, the Ormond Sisters, with their "March of the Wooden Soldiers," tap dancing and delightful harmony; the Runaway Four, familiar acrobatic comedians, and the Chester Hale Girls. An added starter Saturday night was Brooke Johns, the gentleman dairyman from Rockville, just in time for a minute to visit his old friend, Mr. Joyce.

The orchestra's "Moonlight Reveries," medley overture, the Hearst Metrotone News, the M-G-M silent news and Charles Gaige's organ interludes complete a highly enjoyable bill.

METROPOLITAN

"THE SACRED FLAME." A Warner Bros. talking picture from the play by W. Somerset Maugham, featuring Pauline Frederick, supported by Conrad Nagel and Lila Lee. Directed by Archie L. Mayo. Reviewed (second week) by Mary Porter Russell.

Stage adaptations, regardless of their limitations as ideal film material, usually come as a relief from the transparency of standardized motion picture plots. This one deals with a tragic situation in a thoughtful and profoundly serious way. A few changes have for no apparent reason been made in the story, and there is one incongruous departure from realistic atmosphere when Conrad Nagel sings to Lila Lee a theme song piece concerning the sacred flame of love. The important happenings, however, are essentially the same, and the big scenes, dominated as they are by Pauline Frederick, retain their power.

Two brothers, their mother, the wife of the elder boy and his nurse, are involved in the unhappy tangle. The young wife finds herself cheated of life's partnership with the man she married, when an aviation accident makes him a helpless cripple. After three years of pitying solicitude on her part, his brother arrives from South America, and the mother, cognizant of the love which develops between the two, ends the life of the invalid, to save him the pain of disillusionment, and because she loves the lovers, too.

Put so bluntly as this, it seems impossible that all concerned could command one's sympathy. And yet they do. The author has sought to make the mother a super woman, with infinite pity and understanding and love. He has succeeded in making her an extremely interesting character, who, through the inspired interpretation of Miss Frederick, achieves a definite glory. The wife, played by Lila Lee, is likewise beautifully conceived and beautifully done. Conrad Nagel is the cripple, Walter Byron the brother, and Dale Fuller the nurse.

Martinelli heads the added attractions in selections from "Il Trovatore." There are also the newsreels, a cartoon and trick musical offerings by Herschel Henlere.

FOX

"HARMONY AT HOME." Fox all-dialogue picture with incidental music, adapted from the play, "The Family Upstairs," by Harry Delf. Cast headed by William Collier, sr., and Marguerite Churchill, supported by Elizabeth Patterson, Rex Bell and Charles Eaton. Directed by Hamilton MacFadden. Reviewed Sunday afternoon.

Here is the place to go to do your laughing! As the head of a house in which anything but harmony prevails, William Collier, pere, making his screen debut, proves no less an unctuous comedian for the cameras and microphones than he has always been on the stage, where, since the distant days when he was billed as "Willie," he had been the foremost of our farceurs.

Harry Delf's particular mold of domestic comedy fits the elder Collier with a made-to-order perfection. It does no less for Elizabeth Patterson, cast as the garrulous wife intent upon marrying off their eldest daughter. In fact, Marguerite Churchill, as Louise Haller; Charlotte Henry, as Dora, and Charles Eaton, as Willie, comprise a household that may be relied upon to convulse any audience not impervious to the humor of a genial travesty of American home life.

When Louise, in most accidental fashion, does finally acquire a young man whose interest in time blossoms into love and a proposal, mother scrambles the whole thing in her own inimitable and thoroughly comprehensive fashion! It takes dad's seasoned knowledge of women to pull the match out of the fire and start the kids on their way to a home of their own—harmony or no harmony.

That is about all there is to the plot, but it certainly is not all there is to the hilarious embellishments with which it has been decorated. There is no way to make the picture funny in newspaper type, but it is a riot on the screen.

In addition to those named, Rex Bell, as the abashed suitor; Dixie Lee, as Willie Haller's dancing partner in the Roseland's prize hoofing contest, nad Dot Farley, as the dressmaker who has become a modiste, all aid appreciably to the fun of a corking good comedy.

It seems to me a bit presumptuous for Fanchon and Marco to announce the stage show as one of their "ideas." I am not sure that Singer's Midgets do not antedate Fanchon and Marco. At any rate, their pretentious "Miniatures of 1930" is a complete revue that omits none of the specialties that have been identified for years with this Lilliputian carnival.

Briefly, the sequence is disembarkation from the ocean liner; Chinese magician; snow ballet; Roman arena and strong man, who lifts a Shetland pony and rider; Alpine scene; show girl number, "Share Your Lips With Me, Baby;" eccentric male dancer; song and dance by boy and girl; jazz band, introducing soprano solo, singing duck and an out-of-tune saxophone; octet in "Bottoms Up," from the "Scandals;" boxing match and the gorgeous Oriental finale, participated in by the entire company of 24. During the revue, three trained elephants, four Shetland ponies and one reindeer are introduced, to the huge delight of the youngsters.

The abbreviated Fox Movietone News, a tribute to Lincoln and the third of Mr. Brusiloff's special overtures—potpourri of compositions by Grieg—round out an elegant entertainment.

"SALLY." A First National-Vitaphone presentation of Florenz Ziegfeld's musical comedy of the same name by Guy Bolton and Clifford Gray, original music by Jerome Kern, new songs by Joe Burke and Al Dubin, and adapted for the screen by Waldemar Young. Starring Marilyn Miller, supported by Joe E. Brown and Alexander Gray. Directed by John Francis Dillon. Reviewed Sunday afternoon (second week) by W. A. Whitney.

Smashing all records for attendance and box-office receipts set by "Lilac Time," "Sally" crashes to new heights. And rightly, too; for the current attraction is a musical, all-color comedy than which to date there has been no whicher!

Following strictly the original script and the traditional technique of theatrical performances of this character, Director Dillon has produced an excellent picture replete with able acting, gorgeously colored scenery, tuneful songs, clear photography, and faultless sound recording and reproduction.

The original Sally comes back as the Sally of the picture, and Marilyn Miller offers a really believable and convincing characterization of the orphan girl who rises to Ziegfeldian prominence. Her speaking voice, as well as her singing voice, is clear and pleasing, but it is her dancing which will be remembered. Seldom is there seen so ingenuously spontaneous a series of dances as is here portrayed.

The many supporting roles are competently handled. Joe E. Brown, as the deposed grand duke, furnishes much of the comedy in his own inimitable manner, and is aided in this task by Ford Sterling and T. Roy Barnes, cabaret proprietor and booking agent, respectively. Alexander Gray well portrays the society scion who dares to seek the heart and hand of the dancer, and Maude Turner Gordon depicts the aristocratic society matron.

Of the five songs principally used in the development of the story, two are from the stage production, the others are new, and worthy to be interpolated in Kern's tuneful score.

"HIT THE DECK." Radio Pictures' talking, singing and dancing adaptation of the Vincent Youmans' musical comedy hit, based on the Belasco stage production of "Shore Leave," with Jack Oakie and Polly Walker featured. Directed by Luther Reed. (Fourth week.)

Exerting as strong a grip on public acclaim as its distinguished predecessor, "Rio Rita," this tuneful work matches the house record for duration of run by entering its fourth and final week. With the scenes of major importance executed in technicolor and a rousing Negro ensemble utilized to lend body to the "Hallelujah" number, there is every justification for this popularity of "Hit the Deck."

Necessarily, the cast also has something to do with it. Jack Oakie finds a perfect outlet for his incisive brand of comedy in the role of the gob, whose maxim it is not to "take no money off no dames."
